It's a Maple Leaf!

Hectic Night Settles Flag

OTTAWA (CP)—Selection of a red maple leaf national flag for Canada was settled in the Commons early today as the debate-limiting device of closure stopped the flood of words.

The issue reached a stirring climax as the Commons approved by a vote of 163 to 78 the flag selected by a House committee after six weeks of study—a red maple leaf on a white field flanked by red panels.

SENATE NEXT

The design still must go to the Senate for approval.

The wind-up to 33 days of flag debate brought stormy exchanges in the Commons in sharp contrast to the mildness exhibited at the start of the sitting Monday when the Liberals carried out their announced intention to use closure to end the debate.

"GOOD FLAG"

Prime Minister Pearson closed the debate with an appeal to Canadians to "rally round this red maple leaf flag."

"This is a good flag," he said in appeal to the Conservative benches where Opposition Leader Diefenbaker sat glowering.

"It's a Canadian flag."

ENTER PRAY

After Mr. Pearson said he hoped Canada can go forward as a strong, united country under the new flag, Mr. Diefenbaker leaped to his feet.

"You've done more to divide Canada than any other prime minister," he shouted, stabbing with his finger at Mr. Pearson.

DIN FOLLOWS

"We should feel sympathetic towards the right honorable gentleman because he is feeling the frustration of failure," Mr. Pearson shot back.

A din of shouting from both sides of the House followed. Mr. Pearson followed. Mr. Diefenbaker followed.

Government Resigns In Israel

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel called on President Zalman Shazar Monday night and tendered the resignation of his government following a fresh storm over the 10-year-old "Lavon affair."

No other single political issue in Israel has aroused more emotion or claimed more space in the press than the "Lavon affair," which culminated in the resignation in 1955 of Defence Minister Pinhas Lavon.

Details have never been officially divulged of an allegedly abortive security operation abroad, ordered by Lavon, which at the time was said to have caused loss of lives and liberty as well as political damage to Israel's name.

New Committees Urged

More Time at Home for MPs?

OTTAWA (CP) — Radical changes in Parliament's working schedule were proposed to the Commons Monday to ensure MPs a week in their constituencies for every four weeks in the capital through most of the session.

Under a setup suggested by the Commons special procedures committee, most of Parliament's detailed study of the government's multi-billion dollar spending program would be made by nine committees. Parliament would adjourn two weeks in every five to allow half the MPs to work on spending in five of the committees while the other half went home to deal with riding affairs. In the second week, four more committees would take up the work, manned by the MPs who had made their constituency visit. Attendance would be required at the committee meetings, enforced as it is now in the Commons—a $120-a-day penalty for absences beyond 21 days as reported by the MP himself.

The procedures committee recommendations were introduced in the Commons by H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat), chairman of an all-party subcommittee on Parliament's committee structure.

Mr. Olson gave notice that he proposes to ask the Commons to endorse the recommendations some time after next Wednesday. He would give no indication when that will be.

Canadian Delegates Forestall NATO Crisis

PARIS (UPI) — Canadian delegates Monday night capped an apparently successful diplomatic effort to stall a nuclear crisis flare-up at today's opening session of the NATO ministerial conference.

Spokesmen for the delegation were confident any confrontation between the United States and France over alliance nuclear arrangements had been prevented.

Defence Minister Hellyer and External Affairs Minister Martin have discussed the situation with a "representative" group of the smaller NATO powers, and with the big three—the United States, Britain and France.

Meanwhile, Martin was preparing to present a Canadian proposal to the opening session designed to take the multi-lateral nuclear force and the related British Atlantic nuclear force issues out of the ministerial forum.

Details of the Canadian presentation, still being drafted by Martin and his external affairs aides, have not been released. But it was understood Canada will press for an immediate ministerial meeting on the nuclear issue, following the present NATO talks.

The meetings likely would be held early in the new year, reliable sources said. Canada's position is likely to be that they be held on the ministerial level, involving possibly defence ministers of the alliance.

At the same time, Canada is expected to urge that the strategy review, initiated at the May, 1963 Ottawa ministerial meeting, be pushed to completion as early as possible.

The Senate banking and commerce committee voted 17 to 7 Monday night to kill a bill incorporating the Bank of British Columbia.

Rail Plunge Drowns Engineer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Divers Monday recovered the body of Melville Hunt, 44, a Pacific Great Eastern Railway engineer who drowned Sunday when his locomotive left the track and plunged into icy Seton Lake, south of Lillooet.

Meanwhile, PGE officials opened an inquiry into the mishap from which two other men —fireman Marcel Myette and fireman Jack Morrison—escaped with a soaking.

Mr. Myette said he and Morrison were hanging onto the engine's catwalk when the train hit a landslide and plunged into 80 feet of water.

"I must have gone down about 20 feet," said Mr. Myette. "I have no idea how long I was under but it must have been a while because Morrison had already swum 30 feet to shore and was looking for me when I came up."

Defeat of the bank, in which the government intended to invest up to 10 per cent of its ownership, brought immediate reaction from opposition political leaders here. Premier Bennett, who earlier said B.C. might go it alone if the bill were defeated, had no comment at all.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, who supported the government measure during the last session of the legislature, said B.C. should open a bank immediately, without waiting for federal government approval.

House of Commons

Ray Perrault, leader of the five-man Liberal team which voted against the bank bill here, said he thinks Premier Bennett can get his bank through the House of Commons.

He also charged that Premier Bennett is working with the Creditiste minority in the House of Commons to block two other banks for western Canada "until he gets his Bank of B.C. on his terms."

Legal Move

In Ottawa, the banking and commerce committee killed the bank bill after B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner told the committee, on behalf of Mr. Bennett, that the province would not subscribe to any shares in the bank until after Parliament deals with its regular revision of the Bank Act, the central legislation under which chartered banks operate.

At present there is nothing in the Bank Act to prevent a provincial government from owning shares in a bank.

10 Per Cent

The provincial government was authorized by a majority vote in the last session to acquire up to 25 per cent of the authorized capital of the proposed bank. But Premier Bennett asked for only 10 per cent of the capital when he appeared before the banking committee recently.

The 17 to 7 vote was taken on a resolution presented earlier by Senator A. K. Hugesen (L—Quebec) declaring that the bill should not pass because provincial government ownership of bank shares could lead to control of a federally-chartered bank by a province, and would raise serious constitutional questions.

Parties Split

The motion, which carried on a vote which split party lines, declared the preamble of the bill was not proven.

"This kills the bill at the committee stage. Whether it can be revived by some procedural move is open to argument," Senate sources said.

Mr. Bonner said after the committee adjourned that the action "was not encouraging."

He would not say, however, whether he regarded the bank bill as dead.

Wide Support

NDP Leader Strachan said: "I think it's ridiculous for the Senate to turn down an application for a bank charter that has received the support of all but five of the elected representatives of B.C."

"It was the only major issue in the last session where we stood with the (Socialists). We have always supported socialized banking and I firmly believe a provincial government does have a right to participate in the banking processes of the nation," he said.

"I believe the government should go ahead and set up a banking system in the province anyway — call them treasury branches or anything you like," said Mr. Strachan.

"I feel they should move immediately, so we can accumulate funds for the province."

Americans Recalled

Soviet Trio Ordered From U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Monday ordered three Soviet military attaches to leave the country and called home three U.S. attaches in Moscow who had been accused by the Soviets of spying.

Expulsion of the Soviet military attaches "for activities incompatible with their diplomatic status" apparently was a U.S. retaliation against the Soviet action.

Great Britain recalled one of its naval attaches from Moscow and said it would expect an assistant Soviet naval attaché from London.

RELATED?

State department spokesmen said the U.S. attaches were being recalled because travel restrictions imposed on them in the Soviet Union hampered their ability to perform their duties.

Asked if the U.S. and Russian actions were related, state department press officer Robert McCloskey replied: "Draw your own conclusions."

NO ELABORATION

The three Soviet officials declared "persona non grata" in the United States were army attaché Gen. Maj. Vasily V. Zadachinski; assistant army attaché Col. Vladimir R. Grechagin; and assistant air attaché Col. Aleksandr V. Udalov.

McCloskey would not elaborate on the meaning of "activities incompatible with their diplomatic status" but said the Soviet attaches would leave the country "as soon as practicable." They had been restricted to the Washington area and were declared unwelcome Monday.

B.C. Bank Bill Killed

late our own capital in this province without having to go east for it. They should have it ready for the next session."

Mr. Perrault said he thinks the banking committee would have handed down a "favorable" decision on the bill if Premier Bennett had been willing to agree to a limitation on government participation in the bank.

Domination

"Obviously the Senate was concerned about the effect on Canada's banking system of provincial government control or domination of chartered banks," Mr. Bennett probably will not give up, said the B.C. Liberal leader. "Knowing the premier, I presume he will not accept this as the final verdict but will pursue the matter through the House of Commons by means of a Private Member's Bill."

Patrolman Pelted By Candy

VANCOUVER (CP)—A man perched on Lions Gate Bridge 200 feet above Vancouver Harbor, bombarded bridge patrolmen with candies, an assize court jury was told Monday.

Patrolman Donald Straughan told the court the candies began raining down on him when he stopped his towing vehicle behind a small truck which appeared to have stalled beneath the south tower of the bridge early on Oct. 26.

Mr. Straughan was testifying at the trial of Gert Larsen, charged with creating a mischief by unlawfully climbing up one of the bridge's cable ladders connecting the bridge deck with the main suspension cables.

Larsen made news in Victoria when last September and early October he staged a series of sit-downs on the steps of the legislature in support of a claim he felt he had to workmen's compensation.

Mr. Perrault said it is "shocking beyond belief" that Mr. Bennett "is now working with the Creditiste minority in the House of Commons to effectively block" the bank application of Laurendeau, whose headquarters would be in Vancouver, and the Bank of Western Canada, based in Winnipeg.

"Bennett met Creditiste representatives in Ottawa during one of his conferences there. He is using them as a club over the House of Commons," until he can get his Bank of B.C. on his terms," said Mr. Perrault.

Power Politics

"It is sheer and utter power politics, not worthy of a premier of this province."

"Bennett can deny it all he wants but I happen to know what is going on in Ottawa," said the Liberal leader.

He predicted the turn of events will be "a lively matter for discussion" in the forthcoming session of the legislature.

Not Opposed

B.C.'s five Liberal MLAs are "not opposed to establishment of a Bank of B.C. as such—we merely oppose the domination and control of such a bank by any provincial government, be it Social, Liberal or NDP," Mr. Perrault said.

"What we seek at the next session is assurance from the premier that he has modified his concept of the bank to the extent he will not exercise government control through government participation."

Be Sensible

Premier Bennett modified his plan from 25 per cent ownership to 10 per cent, said Mr. Perrault, and "we hope he will change it still further and be sensible about this thing."

Senator Wallace McCutcheon (P.C.-Ontario), who voted to kill the bill, said the assurance given by British Columbia is insufficient. He said the other sponsors of the proposed bank should declare how they intend to proceed, pending revision of the Bank Act.

Senator Arthur W. Rombach (L.-Ontario), who voted to keep the bill alive, said the Bank of British Columbia should be given the same treatment as other bills incorporating new banks this session—the Bank of Western Canada and the Laurentide Bank.

Mr. Rombach said he is anxious to have the Bank of British Columbia incorporated, whether or not the province subscribes to its capital now or later. This was the first time Parliament had been asked to approve incorporation of a bank that will be entirely Canadian, restricting its share ownership to Canadian residents.

Dangerous

Senator Norman Paterson (L.-Ontario), who wanted action on the bill postponed for at least two years, said it is a dangerous precedent to give ownership in a bank to a government which controls vast natural resources.

Hectic Night Settles Flag

Pearson said "there's no use making this appeal..."

Mr. Pearson's speech followed use of a procedural wrinkle by the Conservatives that produced the third Commons vote of the sitting. That ran the total for the sitting to four.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette was speaking in the chamber in the evening toward 1 a.m.—the cutoff time under the closure rule. With about seven minutes left to the deadline, Mr. Caouette's time ran out. Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker and Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) all stood up.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton ruled that because two Conservatives and one Creditiste had spoken last in the debate he would recognize a Liberal—Mr. Pearson.

FORCED VOTE

Eldon Wooliams (PC—Bow River) then stood on a point of order and moved a motion that the leader of the opposition be allowed to speak. The Conservatives forced a vote on the issue and were beaten back 155 to 72.

Earlier the Commons had defeated a Conservative amendment that would have turned back the committee-selected flag with a recommendation the committee pick the Red Ensign as the national flag. The vote on that issue was 162 to 80.

And the first vote of the day came on the Liberal motion to use closure to turn off the current phase of the flag debate at the close of its 11th straight day before the House. The vote was 152 to 85.

Jeers, cheers and interruptions greeted the prime minister as he worked through his final speech on the flag, asking Conservative members not to vote against a design that would someday be the flag of Canada.

HOOTS

"The suggestion was met with hoots."

"We have made the appeal and they have turned it down with insult," he said.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) angrily jumped to his feet after Mr. Pearson finished to protest any suggestion that the opposition rejected the flag with jeers and insult. He demanded that the prime minister withdraw such remarks, and Mr. Pearson said he would let the Speaker decide on the attitude of the opposition. Nothing further was done.

At one point Mr. Pearson offered to use only half of his 20-minute time allotment and, with consent of the House, let Mr. Pearson.

Vaccine Mobilizes Anti-Bodies For War with Disease Germs

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD (First of Two Articles)

What is vaccine?

The first vaccine was discovered by accident. Smallpox used to be (and still is, unless we maintain constant vigilance) a very contagious disease. In the past, a local epidemic could and did cause hundreds of deaths.

But in those days if a person recovered from the disease, it was found that he usually was immune to another attack. Why? Nobody knew.

Slowly doctors began to notice that milkmaids, and others who handled cattle, very often did not get smallpox. At length it was noticed that the persons who were safe had been in contact with a sick cow—one with cowpox.

CAUSED BY VIRUSES

Here is the explanation. Our protection against certain disease caused by viruses (or sometimes other particles) is that the blood develops antibodies when exposed to the particular disease-causing organism.

A mild case of smallpox introduces the blood to create antibodies which will go to work as soon as the virus enters the body.

In the case of smallpox and cowpox, these two diseases were similar enough so that cowpox virus, while not making human beings dangerously ill, would create antibodies which would protect against smallpox. (Dr. Edward Jenner, English physician, originator of inoculation with cowpox virus to immunize against smallpox, first demonstrated his method in 1796.)

The same for the virus (it wasn't then known as a virus) that caused cowpox was "vaccinia," from vacca, meaning cow.

And that is how the word vaccine was born.

Unfortunately not all disease happens to have a very similar animal disease (like cowpox). Therefore it is necessary to make artificial ones.

We call these modified or attenuated germs. By laboratory methods they are gradually changed and weakened until they no longer cause the disease itself, yet still retain the property of inciting the blood to create protective antibodies.

Or, in still other cases, the virus may be raised in a laboratory and then killed. This is how the Salk vaccine for polio is made. The killed or inactivated virus cannot give anyone polio, but it still can make the blood build up antibodies.

And that, in a nutshell, is how a vaccine works. It makes the body (the blood, that is) accumulate a supply of tiny protein particles which will fight their particular disease germ whenever it appears.

How long does a vaccination last? That's something to discuss tomorrow.

The Weather

Court at crime scene

Minute of Silence

War Crimes Evidence On Spot at Auschwitz

OSWIECIM (Auschwitz), Poland (UPI)—A West German war crimes court stood Monday for a minute in silence at the black wall of Auschwitz, the greatest death camp in history. Then it began hearing on-the-spot evidence.

The court, which usually meets in Frankfurt, is trying 20 men charged with the murder of between 2,500,000 and 4,000,000 Jews in less than five wartime years. It came here for three days of hearings.

Monday's session lasted seven hours. Only one defendant, Dr. Franz Bernhard Lucas, 53, was present. He stood with bowed head during the minute of silence and stared at the muddy courtyard between Bloc 10, where "medical" experiments were carried out on women, and Bloc 11, the disciplinary "Bloc of Death."

The 24-man group made a minute inspection of Bloc 11, checking what could be seen of the "Black Wall" at the end of the courtyard where the Nazis shot untold thousands.

One of the court's purposes in coming here was to determine whether witnesses who have testified before it during the past year could have seen the events they described from the places where they said they were standing.

Later, the group moved to Birkenau, the giant sub-division of Auschwitz, devoted almost wholly to death. There the group took measurements of the railway platform where the victims were unloaded.

Newsmen were barred from approaching the court during its work. Prosecutor Hans Gross-mann told a brief news conference what the court had done in general.

He quoted Judge Walter Hotz, leader of the group, as saying he had "never seen such dreadful things in such concentrated forms" as he had here.

SHOW PLACE. Auschwitz and Birkenau were two different camps, separated by about three miles and both administered from Auschwitz, the German name for this small Polish town.

Although unspeakable crimes were committed at Auschwitz, the Nazis maintained it as a show place. International Red Cross inspection teams gave it a favorable rating. Hidden from them were the atrocities perpetrated in Blocs 10 and 11 and the "Black Wall" between them.

Lucas, now a gynecologist in West Germany, was accused of selecting victims for the gas chambers at the rail siding. He has steadfastly maintained his innocence.

Worse Still to Come

Western Prairies Lashed By Savage Snowstorm

By CANADIAN PRESS

Near-blizzard conditions and frigid arctic air held the Western Prairies in its icy grasp Monday night and weather officials said the worst was yet to come.

Temperatures Monday were 25 to 30 degrees below normal for mid-December in Alberta and were expected to drop to about 40 degrees below the long-term average today.

Northerly winds, ranging as high as 45 miles an hour in Calgary, contributed to the discomfort of Alberta residents with a wind chill of 65 degrees below zero reported from Grande Prairie to Calgary.

BLIZZARD WARNINGS. Weather officials have issued blizzard warnings from Edmonton to Moose Jaw, Calgary's visibility was down to half a mile in blowing snow and Penhold had a visibility range of one mile.

The weather office at Edmonton, where the thermometer recorded 30 below Sunday, warned of hazardous driving and drifting snow. Winds were expected to range from 15 to 20 miles an hour at most points.

The winter's fury had brought much Edmonton traffic to a standstill by Monday noon. Some commuters in Edmonton abandoned their cars and squeezed into already-crammed city buses. Extra buses were put on some lines, but vehicles were reported running behind schedule.

POWER SHORTAGE. In Grande Prairie, where winds gusted to 45 miles an hour in the freezing weather, 12 school bus drivers decided it was too cold to drive Monday. In Calgary, which recorded an overnight low Sunday of 10 below, Calgary Power Company officials said voluntary power rationing might be necessary.

Opposition Pledged

Burnham Succeeds Jagan as Premier

GEORGETOWN (CP)—Forbes Burnham, leader of the Peoples National Congress party, was sworn in Monday night as premier of British Guiana.

The ceremony was performed by the Governor, Sir Richard Luyt, shortly after a constitutional amendment had been signed in London empowering the Governor to dismiss Cheddi Jagan as premier.

Jagan, who had refused to resign after his party failed to win an overall majority in last week's general election, outlined Monday a program of vigorous non-violent opposition to the new government.

Jagan expressed doubt of future electoral honesty under British supervision and urged the presence "at all times" of an independent observer team, preferably from the United Nations, to insure against election frauds and guarantee civil liberties.

EXPECTED TO LAST. The weather office predicted the cold snap probably would last until Thursday, and could continue until Christmas.

Edmonton was expected to reach 20 below Monday night, with Saskatchewan points even colder. Prince Albert was girding for an overnight low of 30 below, Saskatoon and North Battleford 25 below.

3 Victorian

Rapist Remanded

VANCOUVER (CP)—Larry Kanester, convicted rapist who recently escaped from Essonville mental hospital, was remanded until Feb. 27 Monday when he appeared in Supreme Court to face dangerous sexual offender proceedings.

Kanester told Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton during an earlier appearance that he has applied for leave to appeal the rape convictions in Victoria for which he is serving 20 years. Kanester surrendered after being at large for some time. He escaped from Essonville with two others. He was remanded until Dec. 28 when he appeared in Port Coquitlam police court Monday on a charge of escaping lawful custody.

Pneumonia

William Bendix Dies, 58

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor William Bendix, whose rough, gruff manner masked a marshmallow heart, died Monday. He was best known as the harried father in television's Life of Riley.

The end came at Good Samaritan Hospital, where he had been listed in critical condition for several days with lumb pneumonia. He was 58.

At his bedside were his wife of 37 years, Therese, 56, and daughters Stephanie, 20, and Lorraine, 30.

HANDSOME AS MUD

Bendix was that rarity, a character actor who became a star. But whereas most stars have fancy profiles and faultless physiques, he was built like a barrel and had a face like 20 miles of bad road.

He once remarked: "I'm about as handsome as a mud fence." But he was fascinating to watch. In his occasional roles as a heavy he radiated pure force and menace. Playing the pal of conventional heroes, he was a convincing hell fellow well met. And as TV's Chester Riley, involved in endless domestic predicaments, he showed a sure touch for comedy.

Long Probation For Victorian

SEATTLE (AP)—Frank Gilbert Longley, 30, Victoria, Monday was given a three-year suspended prison sentence, placed on probation for five years and ordered returned to Canada. Longley was convicted of driving a stolen car from Reno to Salt Lake City last March 10.

Loud and Clear

IF THE VOICE of the electorate was on the whole rather indefinite in the municipal elections in Greater Victoria, by reason of a conspiracy of wretched weather, Christmas preoccupations and a general lack of controversial issues, at least it rang through with some clarity and force in Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

In both of these districts the turnout of voters was fairly substantial, sufficiently so to leave little if any doubt about the balloting results accurately representing the will of the bulk of the populace. The Oak Bay electors most definitely gave their council reason to review its course by choosing, at the top of the polls, Dr. Harold R. Carter, a newcomer to municipal affairs whose platform was the preservation of the municipality's present residential character and opposition to high-rise apartment buildings. In Esquimalt the vote for merging the View Royal "panhandle" was overwhelming; the endorsement of the incumbent councillors also was clear beyond question.

It may be seen as a compliment to the Victoria council that the three sitting members were returned for further terms and a supporter of the mayor's program, Mr. Clyde Savage, was elected to the vacant seat. Even that the vote was the lightest on record is perhaps a sign of satisfaction, although not of the most welcome or positive kind.

In Saanich, however, there may well be some head-scratching over the true meaning of the results, particularly the defeat of the veteran councillor and former reeve, Mr. Joseph Casey. Had this been an "anti-old guard" manifestation, one would hardly have expected Councillor Leslie Passmore to have come so close to the head of the list, being barely topped by Mr. Edward Lum. With 13 candidates for three seats, however, and only one in five eligible voters casting ballots, it would be impossible in any event to find a sharp definition of the views of the majority.

In all the municipalities, the fields of candidates were excellent, and it is to be hoped that those who fell short of their goals will be offering their services again a year hence. They, like the successful contenders and the good citizens who braved the squally weather and took time off from Christmas shopping to vote, are to be commended.

Dr. King's Plea

IT IS A REMARKABLE coincidence that Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr. Martin Luther King chose to warn the world of the evils of African nationalism from the pulpit of St. Paul's Cathedral a matter of days before the former British territory of Kenya became a fully-fledged republic.

Dr. King told his congregation of some 4,000 persons of all races that a doctrine of black supremacy was as great a danger to humanity as one of white supremacy. "Unless men and nations live together," he said, "they will perish together."

His words may well have been specifically directed to the Kenya republic whose new president, Jomo Kenyatta, has long held the view that Africa should be for Africans alone.

It is, of course, quite possible to believe that Kenyatta has now suddenly become a moderate by eschewing his Mau Mau pledge to destroy the white man on the dark continent.

However, many of his actions as leader of the Kenya government for the past year make this a doubtful assumption. In those twelve months Kenyatta has not only established himself as a dictator by eliminating all effective political opposition but has effectively shackled the press in his country. Under his guidance Kenya has today become the main stronghold of the Organization for African Unity—a body believed by British colonial experts to be financed by the Soviet Union and dedicated to disrupting orderly progress throughout Africa south of the Sahara.

Dr. King said this: "We (the Negro people) must not seek to rise from a position of disadvantage to one of advantage, substituting injustice of one type for that of another."

If President Kenyatta heeds these words Kenya has every chance of becoming one of the most advanced nations under African rule. If, however, the Kenya leader closes his ears to Dr. King's plea the new republic could well bring destruction upon itself in the same manner as has The Congo.

Just for Love

IT HAS BEEN said that men must love the work they labor at. This may exaggerate the theme somewhat but they do grow into the interest that compels ideas as to how their work may be better performed. All men worth their salt have a degree of dedication and are pleased when their own methods prove to be worthwhile.

New ways of doing things do not always come from the top, but instead may be suggested by those closest to the tasks in hand.

The armed forces have appreciated this for some time, especially since technology has come to be so important a part of the military scene. Equipment and methods are now so varied and intricate that they spark the man with an inventive turn of mind or the wit to devise a new procedure.

And rightly, because of this, the defence department has a special award committee which asks for any idea that will speed matters or give them a new twist of value. Servicemen are encouraged to offer suggestions along this line.

The committee can scarcely be commended on the recognition it grants to those who come up with new ideas, however.

There is report for example of a local naval man who has "won" a committee award for a suggestion relating to an improved method of refueling ships of the fleet. Without knowing anything about the details of such operations it might be assumed that the suggestion is of some value, otherwise there would be no award.

But all this idea man got for his pains was the insignificant sum of ten dollars.

It hardly seems worthwhile. Better a simple "thank you" than such paltry recognition, one that certainly isn't calculated to induce other ideas that will promote efficient methods. At this level of reward naval personnel obviously are expected to respond just for the "love" of it.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sailing men ..."

By TOM TAYLOR

LIKE an army defeated the snow hath retreated. So wrote a poet speaking of the kind of white mantle that temporarily laid itself on our streets the other morn.

And which maybe by the time you read this has returned to turblint about and become a mountain, as another poet said. Looking out the window I peek at the typewriter I see cloud masses which have all the earmarks of white bundles ready for delivery in multiple style.

Funny the horror most of us in Victoria have of snow, a blessing that another writer welcomed as hiding all scars. And so it does. When I got up a day or two ago and saw the rooftops full of Christmas benediction I had to agree with him. 'Twas a pretty picture.

And it is not as a stranger to know that I prefer the picture to be on a postcard or on a drawing-room Yale sign. I lived for years as its constant winter companion.

This was in a place where the snow was dry, however; in Victoria it is uncomfortably wet. And too, slippery.

A colleague, receiving his first apprehensive twinge when this element of nature fell upon us, was troubled lest this heralded a winter as much out of season as the summer (sic) just passed. He was afraid of the chore of having to clear his long, long private driveway.

I could have offered to help him. I suppose, if need be, having in my time shovelled tons and tons of this white stuff out of the way, but I refrained. My muscles are not what they used to be.

I have been assured of course that snow, per se, is not entirely a stranger to these parts. Mostly since I came here two decades ago and more this army the poet spoke of has retreated quickly as though aware it was unwelcome, as invading armies usually are. But old-timers, who like to reveal historic episodes great or small, have told me about the time, 50 years ago, when the streetcars ran between banks of snow so high only their tops were visible. Another kind of army, in fact, a human one, was called to the rescue from a Willows encampment.

Enough, even in retrospect, to make you shiver.

Snow and Victoria are not compatible. Elsewhere in Canada, where it is the winter norm, they take nature's postcard blessing in stride, setting us to naught by our, to them, puny objections.

They are harder than we are, perhaps, or more probably just pretending to like something they can't avoid.

One thing snow does however is to make motorists considerate, of themselves and thus of others. The other morn, not being what you'd call a fast driver, I drew to the side en route to the office to let the impatient ones past, but no one accepted my offer. Each car was proceeding on tiptoe, as it were.

And no wonder when this unexpected visitor to Eden's side makes its appearance. I know that if those clouds I spoke of, coming nearer as I look again out of the window, do what they threaten to do I shall have to study the map to see how to get home without going up or down a "brae." And it is only in such circumstances does one discover how many hills, small but of potential hazard, this fair city has.

And yet, as I scan the foregoing for typing errors, I am filled with remorse. One should accept the decrees of fate with resignation. It's Christmas time, and there's nothing like a white mantle to suit the mood better.

Although honesty compels me to confess that for your truly pictorial snow has a much better appeal than the real thing.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

The long and bitter siege of Stalingrad ended with the announcement by the Russian authorities that the German Army had been encircled, 22 years ago today—in 1942. The Red Army had mounted massive offensives against the Germans and the eventual encirclement and two major attacks destroyed the power of the Nazi divisions. The Russians took 137,000 prisoners, most starving and ill, and killed some 175,000 officers and men.

1961—Former Nazi Gestapo officer Adolf Eichmann was sentenced to death by an Israeli court for his part in mass slaughter of the Jews.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1914—Grand Duke Nicholas massed Russian troops in Poland for a decisive assault on German positions.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1939—Uruguayans authorities gave the German pocket battleship Graf Spee two more days to leave the port of Montevideo, where the ship had fled from British warships; British planes began a mass attack on German air and naval forces.

Ottawa Offbeat

Changes Looming for Capital

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA'S civic election last week may have an effect on the future status of the nation's capital—which it is, of course.

After many years of strong influence in the affairs of Ottawa, Charlotte Whitton will leave public office at the end of the year.

And Miss Whitton, as mayor, has been a strong supporter of the status quo here as far as the nature of the city's government is concerned. She has insisted on maintaining a full civic government independent of all but the normal provincial rules.

That is to say, she has firmly opposed any moves which might allow the federal government a voice in, or even control of, the governing of the city.

There have been some strong suggestions that, because Ottawa is the capital and because the federal government spends so much money maintaining parts of it, the entire area should be turned into a federally-controlled district such as the District of Columbia in the United States.

But, as many a controller and alderman in Ottawa has discovered, it is close to impossible to do anything to which Mayor Whitton is opposed.

She won't be mayor after Dec. 31, though, and the new mayor, former controller Don Reid, is a far more reasonable person.

So it may well be that some time in the new year another effort will be made to allow the federal government some voice in the affairs of the capital.

There is a good deal of sense in such a plan. Ottawa is not a city which boasts of much industry—it has only one really big one and that is the federal government.

The government cannot, of course, be taxed, despite the fact it has massive buildings all over the city and on some of the best land.

To compensate for this, grants are paid in lieu of taxes and some indication of the size of the government organization here is provided by the fact that the grants now total $6,000,000 annually and still do not fully compensate for the taxes which might be levied.

In addition, the government often contributes to large public works schemes in the city (such as the new collector sewer, the new bridge across the Ottawa River, the new cross-city thoroughfare).

And in addition, the government maintains many miles of fine roadways—the finest in the city—and is building more.

Money from all Canadian citizens pay for this, in effect, and yet those people have no voice in the administration which uses the money.

Oddly enough, many of the people living in Ottawa recognize this and a majority actually would favor a federal administrative district and an end to normal municipal government.

For one thing, they feel this would mean a greater federal contribution toward costs of the city and a possible decrease in taxes, which are among the highest in the country because of the lack of industrial taxation.

There is some hesitation, however, about removing the municipal franchise altogether and another plan was put forward earlier this year (also running into the rock wall of Whitton opposition).

That was that the people of Ottawa continue to elect half of the council members while the federal government appoints the other half and a city manager was named.

This is the compromise which might well be put forward again as soon as Mr. Reid has had a chance to get settled in office.

Prime Minister Pearson said the night of the municipal election that he wanted to meet Mr. Reid as soon as possible to discuss federal-municipal relations here.

It is almost a surety that another person close to any such conversation will be Privy Council President George McInnis, who is member of Parliament for Ottawa West.

He has long been an outspoken exponent of the federal district plan and it was he who publicly put forward the suggestion of the shared council.

He is also the man who beat Miss Whitton in her only try for federal office, something she is unlikely to have forgiven.

Thus it is in more than one way that the passing of Miss Whitton from the municipal scene could mean the beginning of a new way of life for the capital.

The 6,000 Champlain Portuguese live in squalor. Their shanties are no better than the African shanty towns near Johannesburg. They are surrounded by rubbish, litter and car dumps, while great blocks of flats rise on the skyline all around. They are exploited by agents, who construct shacks without amenities which they often rent for $21 per head or $6 per bed per month.

Most Portuguese workers come from the province of Alentejo in the south. Following an agreement between the French and Portuguese governments 25,000 Portuguese workers are permitted to work in France annually. Those who arrive without a prior contract have to promise their bosses not to strike, to join unions or to participate in political activities. One workman told me that in the agreements they are supposed to receive the same pay as French workers, but they get 10 per cent less.

In a cafe at Champlain, the sleek, well-fed French workmen in their blue overalls shrugged their shoulders indifferently. "We wouldn't go near the shanty towns if you paid us," they said. "They live like animals up there, with typhus and Spanish fever. The municipality is always having to disinfect them and guard against epidemics."

The Africans meanwhile pay up to $12 key money for a bed, and the Portuguese are discontented. On May 1 this year the hammer-and-sickle flew over the shanty town at Champlain, France's ghettos, as Salazar may learn, are good nurseries for revolution.

At this precise moment there was a shattering bang. The walls shook. Windows flew open, and a glass ashtray missed Mr. Bain's head by inches.

A Starfighter, attempting a low pass for the benefit of the photographers, had gone through the sound barrier by accident—at low level. Mr. Bain recovered his aplomb. He pointed out that the resulting boom was 28 times as strong as any that was expected from an airliner.

"Notice that the only thing that occurred was that the ashtray broke..." he began again bravely. At that point an engineer burst in excitedly to say that the big plate glass windows were shattered and 15 panes of glass broken in the greenhouse. Mr. Bain did not respond very coherently to a question about what might happen to the pilot. At least it can be reported that china cats will withstand sonic booms of 40 pounds pressure per square foot.

THE Civil Service Commission is looking for immigration officers for the Department of Citizenship and Immigration's outposts on the frontiers of Ontario.

The advertisement for the job lists some duties:

"To examine and document persons seeking to come into Canada; to examine ships or aircraft and their crews for clearance in accordance with the Immigration Act and Regulations; to conduct interviews with and accept applications from persons in Canada concerning change or clarification of their status or their sponsorship of relatives as immigrants under the Act and Regulations; to advise persons on the application of the Immigration Act and Regulations; to arrange settlement of immigrants in jobs; to develop job opportunities in Canada for immigrants; to keep records and statistics; to interview and counsel immigrants on arrival for the purpose of assisting them in becoming established in Canada; to prepare reports and correspondence; to acquire a good knowledge of the procedures laid down for implementing those parts of the Immigration Act and Regulations pertinent to the duties outlined."

The job clearly requires persons of ability if it is to be performed well.

But what is the government paying? Salary range: $4,560 to $5,160.

What educational qualifications are required? The announcement says "Grade 11 or 12."

No wonder things seem to get fouled up in immigration offices. Understanding of Immigration Act alone is challenge enough for a university graduate, let alone someone with only high school education.

Shanty Towns

Paris Ghettoes

By ANDREW MULLIGAN from Paris

PARIS grows cleaner, but the ghettos on the outskirts swell daily. Immigrant workers, vital to France's economy, live in misery in the shanty towns at Champlain on the eastern outskirts, or are packed into tiny rooms at St. Denis and Montreuil.

At Champlain they are Portuguese, and at St. Denis they are African. Their living conditions make some shanties look luxurious. The jobs they do are menial. It is rare to see an African or a Portuguese at the wheel of a bus. More often they are in children cleaning buildings or sewers.

The 60,000 Africans come mainly from Senegal, Mali, Mauritania and Guinea, and they often arrive without jobs, exiled and lost. Mostly they drift to Paris, where they are happy to work for $90 a month. They often live 20 to a room, and at one house in Montreuil 300 Africans share 13 rooms. They are exploited by the Algerians, who lease the rooms and beds for enormous prices. When they go out on Sundays, dressed in immaculate white shirts, and suits which they keep wrapped in newspaper during the week, the Parisians mistake them for students.

At work they are punctual and good-natured. They ignore the elementary rights of French workmen. Their passive nature has made them easy prey to unscrupulous bosses and landlords, and they are secretive about their living conditions.

"If the French knew how we lived," explained one African, "they would say we are content to live like animals, or that we are better off than we were in the bush."

They are thirsty for knowledge, and attend over 40 night schools, where they learn to read and write, usually after 13 hours of hard work. Their wages are pooled, and every room is a community in itself, subject to the rule of a "tribal chief." They find comfort and strength in a tribal system which they have transplanted.

In eastern Paris, the Portuguese live in their shanty towns. No one knows how many, and they are the most recent addition to France's 2,700,000 foreign workers. Champlain is a Communist suburb, and a haven for many of the 150,000 Portuguese who have come to live in France—many of them illegally, having crossed the frontiers clandestinely at night.

Once they have a French work permit they can return to Portugal despite Salazar's fears that Communist contamination from French workers will sow the seeds of revolution. The revenue they send home is indispensable.

The 6,000 Champlain Portuguese live in squalor. Their shanties are no better than the African shanty towns near Johannesburg. They are surrounded by rubbish, litter and car dumps, while great blocks of flats rise on the skyline all around. Quality the Key

Old-Fashioned Firm Makes Top Pianos

By BOGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP)—In this day of automation and computers, a 111-year-old U.S. manufacturing business thrives by hewing to old-fashioned ways.

The firm has no public relations man — yet its name is known and respected everywhere.

In employees, it favors maturity over youth. And its ground level headquarters abutting the main factory, executive feet tread uncovered oak floors in Spartan surroundings.

FAMILY ENTERPRISE

The company is Steinway and Sons, piano maker.

Founded in 1853, Steinway remains essentially a family enterprise. It is managed and principally owned by five members of the fourth generation, with a handful of close associates.

Strong traditionalists, the Steinways never have been stand-patters. Brilliant invention, fine craftsmanship and shrewd promotion mark the company's history.

From the first, quality was fixed as a goal, and gradually an instrument was developed that gained a commanding reputation for both strength and sensitivity.

The company meantime steadfastly resisted dilution of standards in the interest of volume output, and diversion of energies into pursuits other than traditional piano-making.

DEMAND IS HEAVY

Even now, Steinway, its order files bulging, accounts for only about three per cent of U.S. piano production. The Steinway line starts at $1,625—double the bottom price in many piano lines—and runs up to $7,500 for a concert grand.

The company was started in 1853 by Heinrich Engelhard Steinway, a master cabinet maker and piano builder who immigrated from a German VANCOUVER (CP) — Highway Minister Gagliardi said Monday British Columbia should have highway patrols with police powers similar to those in the United States.

He said in an interview the patrol is needed because radar traps are not sufficient deterrent to poor drivers.

Highway policing is now done by the RCMP, but that force's primary training is in crime detection, he said.

"I don't know whether the RCMP are really interested to that degree in the traffic business. Primarily their organization is better trained for other duties."

He said he was not criticizing the RCMP.

"They do a job—I know it by experience," said the minister, who has been convicted of several traffic offences.

The minister was commenting on statements by safety officials that more policemen are needed on B.C. highways.

He said that the patrols on highways department freeways do not have police powers.

He said he has always believed there should be more patrolling of highways. Radar was "merely a collection agency" that didn't provide a deterrent.

"But if people know there are police in the area they always behave."

Vindication Angers Arabs

CAIRO (AP) — Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, Roman Catholic archbishop of Vienna, has assured the Arab League that the Vatican's ecumenical council's document absolving Jews of guilt in Christ's crucifixion "was without any political motives and had no political aims."

Artist Records Presences

The art of Richard Cicimarra, well-known for its haunting quality, deals with presences rather than with human beings. It conveys a strange mood of isolation, isolation of the spirit rather than of the body.

This one feels strongly when studying the current showing of his most recent work at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

But it is difficult to put this feeling into words; there is so little that is tangible, the technique unassuming, the materials used of the simplest, yet all adding up to work of power that holds one firmly, the mood is so strong.

The background of this painter may provide a clue to the highly emotional character of his work.

Born in Vienna and having been affected by the Nazi control of Austria, he came to Canada after having spent several years in the West Indies.

His drawings of colored people during this period have a sympathetic feeling, sympathetic to their innate gaiety as well as to their pathos.

Still exploring the possibilities of using the human figure as a vehicle of expression, he is further reducing his statement to the simplest but perhaps the most dramatic, the silhouette.

Like all important changes in an artist's growth, it may take some years for it to emerge as a completely individual concept. What he is eventually going to do with the human figure is at present only hinted at.

The first thing that claims one's attention in this exhibition is The Walker, a white figure in arrested movement against a vaguely blue background. In this, just enough has been said. The composition in its perfection of balance and subtlety of tonal scale is completely satisfying.

Then there is the finely composed figure group Compassion in muted yellow, peacock blue and black.

Obviously toying with abstrac-tion, Cicimarra has created The War Machine, the most important of a small group of watercolors of unusual interest and sensitivity and in the untitled drawings there are several in pencil and brush that should not be overlooked.

Jodoin Urges Strike Parley

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin Monday urged resumption of negotiations to settle the strike between three Toronto newspapers and the International Typographical Union.

Jodoin said in a statement "It is surely time for the two parties to meet to seek a solution to this dispute."

The strike over who would control automated procedures has kept more than 700 men idle since last July 9.

du MAURIER

testing never ends

This smoking machine has no favourite brand. It smokes du MAURIER cigarettes from the production run, or any other cigarette. It also smokes experimental blends made to taste the quality of different tobaccos.

Because it has no favourites, our smoker is an impartial judge. Its verdict is factual. This, of course, is what our scientists want to know... the facts about the tobaccos we use as well as the paper and filter.

If you are a du MAURIER smoker, you are now enjoying the benefits of this quality control—if not, make a test of your own. Smoke du MAURIER—full King Size or regular size—for one week. Prove to yourself that the last cigarette is every bit as satisfying as the first. Meanwhile, we'll carry on with our own testing. Like a circle, it never ends.

Floods Spur Rescue

SHREWSBURY, England (AP)—Hundreds of troops with amphibious vehicles were mobilized in Wales and the west of England Monday for relief operations after disastrous weekend floods.

More than two inches of rain in 24 hours sent the Severn and Wye rivers overflowing their banks, flooding thousands of acres of low-lying land.

RESCUE CUT OFF

In Newtown on the Severn, hundreds of houses and stores were flooded seven to eight feet deep. Aberystwyth, a Welsh coast resort with 10,000 population, was cut off by road and rail.

A six-year-old girl was swept away by flood waters at Aberystwyth, Glamorganhire. At Hampton Lodge, Shropshire, a 20-year-old man was lost from a capsize ferry.

Flood waters were expected to send the Wye and Severn up to 18 feet above their normal level.

SNOW IN SCOTLAND

Manchester had its wettest Sunday since 1877 with two inches of rain in 18 hours.

Hundreds of families were feared stranded in the Welsh farming valleys.

Heavy snows blocked roads in north and west Scotland. Fierce winds over the Atlantic delayed all Sunday plane flights into London from New York.

Information Services

Million Saved By Integration

Savings to the taxpayers of about $1,000,000 will result from integration of the information departments of Canada's armed services, Col. Louis A. Bourgeois, newly-appointed director of department of national defence information services, said Monday.

Col. Bourgeois said that from a staff of more than 200, including civilians, doing information and public relations duties, there will be only 76, including 36 military officers, in the field by the time the department is fully integrated.

WEST COAST TOUR

This new information services function will include providing information about the defence research department and all other aspects of the defence department.

Col. Bourgeois, in Victoria on a tour of west coast defence establishments, confirmed that the B.C. area information services will be directed from IMC Dockyard, in Esquimalt.

Lt. Cmdr. Ray Wormald, who last spring was appointed naval information officer here, is in charge of the new setup, which will begin operations early in the new year.

ROUTINE DUTIES

Routine information duties for each branch of the armed services will be handled by officers appointed by the local commanding officers. For instance, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, at Work Point, has appointed Lieut. Greg Litch to serve in this capacity.

Flying Officer Bud Pauls will perform Air Force and Army information duties in Vancouver

Indonesian Invaders Repulsed by British

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—A British frigate repulsed a suspected Indonesian invasion fleet off the southwestern Malaysian coast in early morning darkness Monday. The guided missile frigate

Fast-Growing Island Business Makes Share Offer to Public

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

One of Vancouver Island's fastest growing businesses, which earlier this year was turned into a public company, is this week making an initial issue of its shares to the public.

Doman Industries Ltd. is putting on the market 57,000 units at $15 each. The package consists of one $10 par 6 1/2 per cent cumulative redeemable convertible preferred share, and one common share of no par value.

The company carries on an extensive trucking business on Vancouver Island, and it has a merchandising division with lumber yards in Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo.

One of its wholly-owned subsidiaries, Nanose Forest Products Ltd., operates two sawmills at Ladysmith and Duncan.

Its main trucking business is the hauling of lumber and equipment under contract, but it also does other freight business between Vancouver Island and the mainland, and recently purchased the Vancouver firm of Marpole Transfer Co. Ltd., with its freight rights in the interior of the province.

Head of the Doman organization is 32-year-old Herbarne Singh Doman of Duncan and his brothers Gurdeep and Dildar are directors and managers of the various groups.

In its filing application, Doman Industries shows that its net profit have risen sharply since the firm was incorporated in 1958. Net profit in 1959 was $41,434; in 1962 it rose to $111,927, and in 1963 to $144,359. In the first ten months of this year estimated net profit was $225,332, after allowing $204,600 for taxes.

The spectacular financial news of the new week came from Canadian Pacific Railway Monday when it announced it would pay $1.50 a share in dividends next February.

This is double the normal CPR dividend which has been paid at the rate of 75 cents every half-year for the past few years. CPR says that the payment is in respect of the year ended Dec. 31, 1964, and that 75 cents of the payment comes from a dividend from its main subsidiary, Canadian Pacific Investments. The payment will be made Feb. 15.

BANK UPS DIVIDEND
Another leading Canadian institution which announced an increase in its regular quarterly dividend rate was Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

The new quarterly rate of 55 cents to be paid on Feb. 1, is raised from 50 cents, while the bank continues to pay a year-end extra of 25 cents.

MARNEY'S RECORD
Massey Ferguson Ltd. came near to doubling its previous year's earnings when it announced Monday a record net income of $45,000,000 ($3.04 a share) in the year ended Oct. 31. A year ago, the net income was $24,100,000 ($1.68 a share). Sales rose to $772,000,000 from $685,700,000.

WELWOOD RESULTS
Weldwood of Canada made a net profit of $2,100,000 (62 cents a share) in the first six months of its operations, and sales were $48,000,000. John Bene, president, reported.

LEAD PRICE RAISED
Consolidated Mining and Smelting has increased its price of lead by one cent a pound to 15 1/2 cents. A similar increase was announced last week by the leading U.S. lead producers.

MONORAIL REVIVAL
British Columbia never got its controversial Wenner-Gren monorail through the Rocky Mountain trench, but the monorail system is far from dead.

Six British areas, including Leicester City Council, are making cost studies for this type of transportation, and Taylor Woodrow of Canada Ltd. says that preliminary surveys are being made by three Canadian cities.

The engineering firm of Taylor-Woodrow has the licence to develop the French Safage monorail system in Canada and the United Kingdom.

Shipments Show Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — Shipments by Canadian manufacturers in October declined 1.1 per cent in value to an estimated $2,710,000,000 from $2,738,900,000 in September, the bureau of statistics reports.

To Postpone Investment

B.C. Offers Compromise On Provincial Bank

Premier Bennett confirmed Monday he had offered to postpone any investment by the provincial government in the proposed Bank of B.C. in return for the granting of a federal charter.

In another statement, he said B.C. is opposed to the export of any water which would not eventually flow out of the province anyway.

Mr. Bennett released a letter he sent last week to Senator Salter Hayden, chairman of the Senate banking committee.

GENERAL POLICY
The letter said the premier agrees "questions of general policy arising out of the proposed share ownership" should be determined by Parliament in the next Bank Act revision.

"Concern in this regard, however, need not hold up the approval and passage of this bill in Senate and its subsequent consideration in the House of Commons."

"To assist in the fullest examination by Parliament of the questions raised by Senator behalf of the government of this province, until the next revision of the Bank Act has gone into effect."

Bennett

INITIAL PROPOSAL

The B.C. government initially proposed purchase of up to 25 per cent of the bank's projected $100,000,000 capitalization, but since then the premier has promised the investment would not exceed 10 per cent.

Mr. Bennett said he hasn't studied details of a multi-billion-dollar scheme for canals and water reservoirs known as the North American water and power alliance, first proposed last spring by United States interests.

"We are interested in exporting power," he said, "but once water leaves the province we lose control of it forever."

Gagliardi Plan

Jet Motor Faces Snow-Blower Test

A prototype of a jet-turbine engine that may be used in a custom-built plane for the B.C. highways department will be tried out on a department snow-blower. Highways Minister Gagliardi said Monday.

Mr. Gagliardi said the engine from United Aircraft Company of Canada will be installed in a big truck and used for handling snow in either the Rogers Pass or the Hope-Princeton Highway summit.

"FLY AT 80"
He said the idea is entirely new. "This has never been heard of anywhere in the world. 'Man, with 500 horsepower, we'll be able to plow at 80 miles an hour and blow that snow 800 feet into the woods.'"

The minister said the project is experimental and there are no firm commitments to the Longueil, Que., company.

NOT TRUE

Asked for comments on reports he has ordered two of the jet-prop engines at a cost of $115,000 for an Expediter air-frame he picked up last spring for $1,100, the minister replied: "There's not a word of truth in that."

He said no money has been paid out and that his department was also investigating purchase of "conventional" engines. He couldn't make a firm order for the jet engines because aviation authorities haven't yet approved a turbo-prop Expediter.

BEING TESTED

However, an American flight engineer had built such a plane — and given Mr. Gagliardi a ride in it — and the machine was now being tested.

The Expediter frame is being modified by highways department engineers at Victoria International Airport for about $30,000.

700 Students Have Case Postponed

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Legal action against more than 700 demonstrators, arrested during a campus revolt at the University of California, was put off Monday until after the board of regents meets Friday for a decision on protested rules.

Lawyers for the demonstrators waived arraignment and agreed with a municipal judge to enter pleas Jan. 5.

The demonstrators are charged variously with trespassing, refusal to disperse and resisting arrest during a Dec. 3 sit-in at Sproul Hall, the university's administration building.

The regents meeting at Los Angeles will take up a faculty proposal to lift all restrictions on campus advocacy of such matters as civil rights and to switch disciplinary control from the administration to the faculty.

The fog was dissipated by an eastward pressing cold front which extended from New York to Florida. It was marked by a line of showers and drizzle.

To the west, a new cold thrust sent the temperature below zero in North Dakota. Weather bureau meteorologists said this was the van of a vast bitter cold mass which brought temperatures as severe as 50 below zero over interior Alaska and the Yukon.

This cold produced an unusual plugging of the Lower Kena River in south Central Alaska by ice. Flooding above the frozen lower river forced six families to abandon their homes at Soldotna where it was 20 below.

There are six ways you can beat winter driving. Five are exclusive with Rambler.

These five exclusive features from Rambler go a long way toward taking the worry out of winter driving. Inside, outside, underside... Rambler for '65 is solidly protected against snow and salt, cold and chill.

1. Double Door Seals. Great idea! Two door seals act as wind-proof insulation against chilly drafts.

2. Ceramic Armoured Muffler. While you're warm inside, don't worry about the underside of your Rambler. The exclusive muffler, tail-pipe and exhaust system is made of tough galvanized metal bonded with long-lasting ceramic materials to resist rust and corrosion. Drive through slush, and over salt. Rambler's Ceramic Armoured Muffler beats the worst conditions.

3. Fibreglass Roofliners. In addition to Double Door Seals, Rambler keeps you warm with special interior roof materials that act just like the insulation in your home. In winter, warm air is kept in. In summer, it's kept out.

4. Deep-Dip Rustproofing. Here's another thing that's kept out of Rambler: rust. Rambler Deep-Dip Rustproofing is the world's most effective rustproofing. Every '65 Rambler body is deep-dipped into six separate tanks to scour, cleanse and purify the metal's surface. Then it's submerged right to its roofline in rustproofing primer. Rustproofing seeps into every square inch to completely protect Rambler against corrosion and rust.

Rambler
A PRODUCT OF AMERICAN MOTORS (CANADA) LIMITED

5. Double Safety Brakes. Front and rear brakes work independently. If tough driving conditions cause one set to go, the other continues to operate. You get the insurance of extra wintertime stopping-power. A Rambler exclusive.

6. Now, think about it. Why go all the way to Mexico just to get away from winter driving, when Rambler makes it so comfortable and worry-free.

Rambler for '65 gives you more, too. For example: Weather Eye, the best heating and ventilating system you can buy; a battery-saving alternator that charges even while your engine is idling; Rambler Power-Guard, a rugged heavy-duty battery; all-season radiator coolant; plastic kick panels to resist snow and slush tracked in by drivers and passengers.

Five ways out of six. That's certainly a winning combination. You win. Winter loses.

SELLING. England — Reginald Beaka, 52, got the bird all right.

Travelling a country road he saw a cock pheasant hustle into the path of his car.

"I thought I'd hit the bird, so I got out and looked," he said. "He was nowhere in sight."

He drove on 25 miles to see some friends, drove back home, parked his car and went to bed.

Next day he drove 15 miles to Lympne Airport, where he is a communications officer, and stopped at a filling station for gas and water.

As he opened his hood, the pheasant flew out.

MUNICH — Premier Michel Tshombe of the Congo says the rebellion in the Congo has been put down and his government now is striving for economic development.

VANCOUVER — Larry William Harvey, 26, a Calgary accountant, was returned here to face trial on charges of robbing a bank of $17,116.

Gerald Martineau, 22, of Vancouver, now is before the court on a similar charge involving the Sept. 28 holdup at a branch of the Bank of Montreal.

BOLTON, England — Police had to rescue 17-year-old Kenneth Best and his girl friend when they were locked inside a dance hall which closed while they were alone in a far corner of the building.

RENO, Nev. — Charley Evans, 23, was booked on charges of drunken and reckless driving after police said they saw him driving down the railroad tracks — following a freight train.

ARUNDEL, England — The Earl of Wessex, who rationed Britain's food during the Second World War, and engineered Winston Churchill's return to power in 1951, died Monday at the age of 81.

EDMONTON — Clifford Dunn, former secretary-treasurer of Fort Vermilion school division, has been charged with theft of more than $50.

LOS ANGELES — Thousands of fans filed by the pier of slain Negro singer Sam Cooke in a scene somewhat reminiscent of the homage paid Rudolph Valentino in New York 34 years ago.

NEW YORK — The dimes and dollars of more than 4,000,000 people who remembered John Fitzgerald Kennedy have already topped the fund total needed for his memorial library.

The late president's brother Sen.-Elect Robert F. Kennedy, announced that more than $10,000,000 have poured into the fund.

'It Endangers All Our Lives'

The intersection complex of Oak Bay Avenue, Newport, Prospect and St. David Street received the attention of the works committee of Oak Bay council Monday night.

"For years it has endangered all our lives," a resident of St. David Street wrote.

To partially alleviate the danger, the committee's recommendation to council is: No left hand turn from St. David Street.

Another recommendation concerned a Beach Drive area. No parking on the east side of Beach Drive from Satellite Avenue south to the entrance of Victoria Golf Club.

Plans for widening of Barclay Street were considered and referred to incoming council.

Make up your mind slowly.
Take a full 60 seconds.

A full minute may be longer than you ordinarily take over one sip of whisky.

Take that long with Time. The whisky in the hourglass bottle gives you a lot to think about.

The taste is light, warm, smooth.

You'll find you have never known a rye like this.

Think about the taste of this gentle whisky. Think about the taste of the whisky you usually buy. Think about how they compare.

It takes a long time to change a man's mind about whisky.

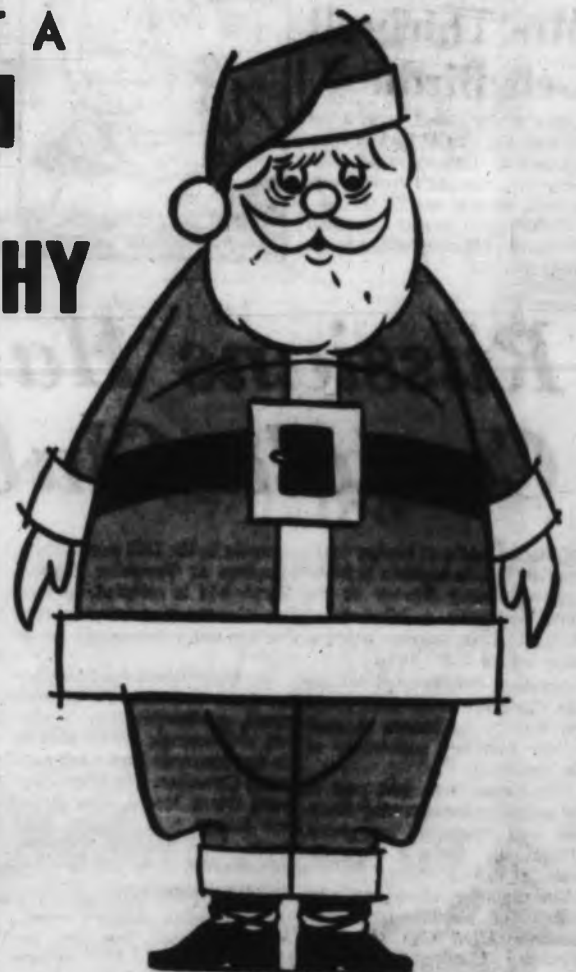

All we ask is one minute.

Real Snow Job

It was snowing north of the Malahat last night but the real blizzard took place in Memorial Arena.

Anxious to get matters over with because of fear of road conditions, Nanaimo's entry in the Vancouver Island Intermediate Hockey League didn't exactly expedite things by drifting over Dorman's Cavaliers, 20-2, to regain the league lead.

	P	W	L	T	Pts
Nanaimo	10	10	10	10	40
Port Alberni	10	10	10	10	40
Victoria	10	10	10	10	40

It was the busiest 60 minutes goalkeeping Vince McDonald of Cavaliers is ever likely to have. He had to contend with 78 pucks on target and about the only respite he had came on the centre-ice faceoff.

LONELY GOALIE

Every one of Nanaimo's 12 players except goalkeeper Len Kroplenski, figured in the harvest of 53 points. Kroplenski was just about the loneliest fellow in the place. He stopped only three shots in the first two periods but had to contend with seven in the last 20 minutes.

Bud Dumont was the most successful collector, scoring six times and getting three assists. Jim Davies had four goals and three assists, Earl Robinson and Jim Peterson each two goals and four assists, Bob Cherry a goal and five assists, Bruno Furlan four assists, Bill Haslam and Ev Henderson each two goals and an assist, Dan Zolob a goal and two assists and Gerry Koster an assist.

Bob Pike and Larry Brooks prevented it from becoming a rout.

Joey Keeps Crown By Counterpunching

FAN FARE

By WALT DITZEN

By JACK CUDDY

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Joey Giardello counterpunched his way to a unanimous 15-round decision over Rubin (Hurricane) Carter Monday night to make a successful first defence of his world middleweight championship at Convention Hall.

The decision was greeted by mingled cheers and boos, and one of the estimated 8,000 fans threw an empty whisky bottle into the ring—amazingly hitting no one in its flight.

There were no knockdowns during the bout between rugged Carter, 27, and boxing master Giardello, 34. But each was shaken up many times, and Giardello suffered a cut at the corner of his left eye in the fourth round, and a nick under that eye in the 11th.

The champion's handlers in the corner did an excellent job of stopping the flow of blood.

Ortiz Stops Divola

BOSTON (AP)—Carlos Ortiz, world lightweight boxing champion, won a technical knockout over Dick Divola of Boston at 2:07 of the first round in a non-title bout on a special card at Boston Garden Monday night.

Ortiz, who weighed 140½ pounds, watched Divola's tactics for about a minute and then floored the local favorite with a solid left cross to the head. It was the 18th knockout of his career for Ortiz who now has won 28 fights against four losses.

Totems Win, 3-1

Leafs' Legs Just Too Tired

Dornhoefer Joins Seals From Bruins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco Seals have acquired right-winger Gary Dornhoefer on loan from Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, the Seals announced Monday.

Dornhoefer is a rangy, six-foot-two, 21-year-old who weighs 175 pounds. He was last year's runner-up for the NHL rookie-of-the-year award.

In 32 games with the Bruins he collected 22 points on 12 goals and 10 assists.

"Real happy to get him," said Seals manager-coach Bud Poile.

"He should help us in our drive for a playoff spot," said Poile.

Mental therapy worked on the Victoria Maple Leafs Saturday but on Sunday, in Seattle, it was a case of the spirit being willing but the flesh being weak.

"We just didn't have the legs we had on Saturday," coach Rudy Pilous said after the 3-1 defeat by the Totems. "The boys played well but we couldn't make up for that first period."

Totems got the first three goals and the Leafs got their only counter before the first 20 minutes was over. And it stayed there.

	P	W	L	T	Pts

Vancouver	10	10	10	10	40
Los Angeles	10	10	10	10	40
San Francisco	10	10	10	10	40

Sunday scores: VICTORIA 1 at Seattle 3; Los Angeles 3 at Portland 1; Seattle 3 at Vancouver 1.

that way until the finish as rookie-goaltender Gary Smith earned himself a game star by blanking the Totems for 60 minutes.

Smith took over from Al Miller after the first period but only 18 that were on target and Pilous said, the move had nothing to do with Miller's play in the first period.

"I just hoped," Pilous said, "that a change might get us started."

Neither club could get many shots on goal, the Totems taking the Maple Leafs testing Jim McLeod only 17 times.

A bad defensive lapse cost the Leafs one goal and another, the third, came on a power play while Gordie Redahl was serving a penalty.

Redahl got it back almost immediately with his 13th goal of the season but the Leafs could never get a sustained attack going and had to be content with one goal for the first time this season. In its first 23 games, the Victoria club had never failed to score at least twice.

Sunday's was the first game of a crucial five-game road trip which could either put the club in contention for a playoff spot or leave it so far out that only a fair-sized win streak would salvage the season.

Nor will things be easy this week. The Leafs play in San Francisco tomorrow, in Los Angeles Friday, in San Francisco Saturday and then back to Los Angeles for a Sunday game.

They fly back home on Monday, arriving late in the evening, and return to Memorial Arena action on Tuesday with San Francisco as the opposition.

BUCKS SECOND

In Sunday's other game, Portland Buckaroos regained second place and stayed within five points of the Totems by outscoring Los Angeles Blades, 5-3, in Portland.

Russians Hammer Canada Club, 4-0

Canada's national hockey team received a rude baptism in international hockey Sunday at Toronto, dropping a 4-0 decision to the touring Russian national team before 13,045 fans.

Although disappointed by the loss, Canadian coach Gord Simpson was by no means shocked by the complete supremacy of the Russians.

"This team was just part of our actual national team," Simpson said following the game. "Eventually we will have the material to beat them."

The Canadian team, made up mainly of players from last season's Allan Cup champion Winnipeg Maroons, was augmented for this game by three players from last season's Canadian Olympic entry.

When the Canadian team to compete in the 1965 world championships at Tampere, Finland, March 4-14 is selected, at least five players who were missing Sunday are expected to be included.

The quintet includes four players from last season's Olympic squad, goalkeeper Ken Broderick, defenceman Barry McKenney and forwards Paul Conlin and Brian Conacher. The fifth is forward Grant Moore, who played last season with Toronto Marlboros, last season's Memorial Cup champs.

RUSSIAN OPINION

The Russian national coach, Anatoli Tarasov, however, has already formed his opinion about the Canadian team.

"Canada's national team is a book which is already read," he commented.

Vyacheslav Starshinov was the sparkplug for the Russians Sunday, firing two goals. Other marksmen were Vyengeny Mayorov and Yuri Yakushev.

OPEN FAST

The Canadians opened Sunday's game on a fast note, hoping to get the jump on visitors by forechecking and bodychecking but the Russians retaliated with some bodychecking of their own and after the first 10 minutes the Canadians stopped forechecking.

The four Russian goals were scored by unguarded players as the Russians displayed a sharp passing style that left the Canadians stunned.

NO GOAL

Canada actually registered the game's first goal but it was disallowed when Elliott Cheney's shoulder-high shot from the point was deflected into the net by teammate Gary Aldcorn's high stick.

The Russians scored twice in the first period and added single counters in the second and third.

CARRY PLAY

After taking command in the first period, the Russians carried the play to the Canadians through the second and then reverted to a cat-and-mouse game in the third.

Simpson said after the game he would have to get films of the game and then get down to work.

ONLY PRAISE

"We need more forechecking, of course," he said. "We had hoped to get the jump on the Russians in the first period but when you get a couple of goals behind, you're in trouble."

Simpson had only praise for the fast-acting Russians. "They were excellent," he said. "They have the drop pass down to perfection."

AT LAKEHEAD

The Russians play a team of senior all-stars from the Lakehead at Fort William tonight before meeting Canada's national team at Winnipeg Thursday.

Canada's goal—Colina defense—O'Malley, Greenham, B. Johnson, 17:28. Forwards—A. Johnson, Kukulowicz, Danvers, Abbott, Chisley, Parke, B. Palmer Starting To Take It Easy

Copy News Service

Arnold Palmer is going to start taking it easy in his old age (35).

"I'm through knocking my brains out," said iron man Arnie the other day. "For 10 years I've been playing in 25 or more tournaments every season. I don't want to get to the point that it is no longer fun but drudgery."

Palmer said next year he'd limit himself to about 15 tournaments.

TOO TIRED

"I'm getting too old and tired to try to keep up with these young bucks week-in and week-out," Palmer declared. He played in 26 PGA tour tournaments this year, visited Australia and Japan and competed in the world match play championship in England. Besides this, he played in television matches, appeared in numerous exhibitions and kept close watch on his myriad multimillion dollar enterprises.

NO TOURS

"No Australia, no tours, the Carling and Canada Cup perhaps and then a good rest."

Palmer's decision to taper off from his hectic schedule will make some tournament sponsors unhappy. They all want Arnie to play in their events, naturally. He's big box office.

MASTERS TUNE-UP

After the winter tour of California in 1965, Palmer said he'll make a Florida event or two and compete in a pair of events in March as tune-up for the Masters in April.

"Then I'll be busy in late May and early June," he said. "I'll play the 100,000 tournaments, such as the Thunderbird and the Tournament of Champions and I'll go to Britain for the Open, play in the PGA, and then, boom, that's it."

Palmer always has had the stamina of a horse, but it's been a question of how long he could keep up the pace.

It was the feeling of the meeting that Royal Athletic Park must be maintained as the premier soccer park since the proposed stadium is a distant and indefinite proposition.

Pat Fletcher, representing the Senior Amateur Baseball League, felt that his organization would agree with soccer on the necessity of retaining the park.

United president Ron Southern pointed out that no work has been done on the burned grandstand since the fire, although the insurance company has apparently concluded its investigation and put forward a settlement.

Southern said that United must have covered seats to survive financially, and that the club would be willing to cooperate with the city in providing some sort of shelter.

He was, however, optimistic about the long-term future of the park. After a talk with parks director Herbert Warren, Southern said he was hopeful that the park would be reconstructed in a manner beneficial to soccer and baseball.

GOOSE CALLER

Impresses U.S.

EASTON, Md. (CP)—Jimmie Trapper, a 27-year-old Cree Indian from Quebec's James Bay region, came a long way south to show his form as a goose caller.

He was impressive, as related by fishing editor Tom Coffield of the Washington Post.

Trapper came to the eastern shore of Maryland for the goose season at the invitation of local guide Francis (Smiley) Cole, who had become acquainted with the Cree knack of calling geese on a Canadian visit.

FAB AWAY

Adds Coffield: "When Jimmie first started 'yukking' at them, the geese were so far away they looked like undernourished sparrows. I figured him for a fraud right off. How wrong can a man be?"

After the flock had been talked within range, Coffield and two companions fired and missed and the Canadian "grunted as if he'd been kicked in the stomach."

But he went right back to work and called in more birds "on a day when I'd have bet all my life's trading stamps that no geese would fly. Let alone pitch into a stool of decoys." Coffield asked Trapper how he did it and got this reply:

"You come home with me and you learn to call geese or you better bring your own ham-burgers."

West's Close On Hourigans

A defensive misplay early in the game by first-place Hourigans enabled Wests and Price and Smith to tighten up the first division standings in the Victoria and District Soccer League Sunday.

Fullback Otto Osage of Hourigans, attempting to clear the ball, inadvertently deflected it into his own net. The goal proved to be the difference as Wests recorded a 3-2 decision to pull within two points of Hourigans.

The "gift" goal was credited to Al Metcalfe and Dick Crompton added the final pair for Wests. Jack Breucker and Volker Stoldt replied for Hourigans.

Price and Smith, tied with Wests in second spot, blanked Gorge Molsons, 3-0, on goals by Maurice Bunyan, Barry Coxier and Tom Armstrong.

Fourth-place Canadian Scottish whipped Navy, 5-1, to stay two points ahead of Brodies in the first division race. Brodies easily outclassed winless Esquimalt with a 9-1 verdict.

Annis Fisher and Ron Stubbings each scored twice for Scottish and John Rosires once while Bob Marsden tallied for Navy.

Tom Smith paced Brodies with three goals while Ernie Eastlake and G. Deakin each scored twice. Other marksmen were A. Coaha and Graham Rice while John Weaver replied for Esquimalt.

In second division play, Gorge blanked Dunlop, 4-0, and Oak Bay Marina shut out Oak Bay, 2-0.

D. Grealy, D. Sheldrick, Lonnie Restall and Mario Gazzalo scored for Gorge with Jack Robbins and Bob Shepherd handling Marina's scoring.

In Calgary Curling

New Masters Plan

CALGARY (CP) — Changes in qualifying procedures for the Masters Canadian Open Curling championship in Calgary, Jan. 13-16, have been announced by promoter Norm Austman.

Austman said rather than staging a single preliminary in Calgary as was originally planned, qualifying competitions will be held in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina, Edmonton and Calgary.

Eight rinks who finished in the quarter-finals of last year's masters will be automatic qualifiers among the 16 rinks to compete this year, Austman said.

They include Ernie Richardson of Regina, Lyall Dagg of Vancouver, Hector Gervais of Edmonton, Merv Mann of Saskatoon, Ron Northcott and Bernie Sparks of Calgary, Hersh Lerner of Winnipeg and Harold Worth of Delisle, Sask.

Three of the eight have confirmed their entries in the masters.

World Event In Scotland

TORONTO (CP) — The seventh annual international curling championship will be played in Perth, Scotland, March 15-18.

Competing in the four-day series will be Canada, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States. The six teams will follow the same format introduced in Calgary — a single round robin followed by a knock-out playoff, with the first and fourth and second and third rinks meeting in a semi-final and the two winners in the final.

Who says VIVA is the best all 'round small economy car money can buy?

VIVA SEDAN

Just about everybody who owns or drives one — that's who!

Read what happy VIVA owners are saying:

"This amazing little automobile has given me at least 40 mpg and has all the handling features of a high-priced sports car. Comfort leaves nothing to be desired."

ROBERT HARLOW, PRESTON, ONT.

"The Best are the two words which most adequately describe my new Vauxhall Viva."

DOROTHY M. HUTCHISON, ARMOLE, N.S.

"Plenty of passing power... ample room both front and back... a comfortable riding car."

J. B. NEWSOME, EDMONTON, ALTA.

"I now have much less money tied up in transportation plus all the advantages of full economy and ease of parking and handling."

ELEANOR B. HOYNE, R.M., KINGSTON, ONT.

"Exceptionally easy to drive... simple to park... The bucket seat comfort equals that of many cars of more than twice the price... I could not have made a better buy than my Vauxhall Viva."

MICHELLE RICHARD (Mrs.), VAL D'OR, QUE.

"I particularly appreciate its 47 mpg driving economy."

GEORGE A. BARBOUR, SPRYFIELD, N.S.

"Roominess is unbelievable... very peppy on the road... easy on the pocketbook."

EDWARD ARDELLI, SYDNEY, N.S.

"The way it clings to the road on curves is something you would expect from a lot larger car."

J. M. LYNGSTAD, BULL LAKE, SASK.

"A truly remarkable little car... manoeuvres easily for small space parking. Viva is the all 'round small car."

B. YOUNG, CHATHAM, ONT.

"A credit to the small car industry."

HAROLD H. ADAMS, MONCTON, N.B.

"Handling and riding qualities are most impressive."

WATSON FORSYTH, KENTVILLE, N.S.

At Fishermen's Wharf

New Restaurant?

A seven-storey, pagoda-type restaurant, which will probably cost in the neighborhood of $700,000, will be built on Erie Street at Fishermen's Wharf by a group of city businessmen, if council approves.

City council lands committee Monday considered an offer of $130,000 from the group, which wished to remain anonymous, for 10 lots and part of another at the intersection of St. Lawrence and Erie Streets. The committee recommended that council approve the sale of the city-owned land as the site of the restaurant and adjacent parking lot.

In addition a considerable portion of land will be reclaimed by the dumping of fill which will be contained by a plaza for strolling, a seawall and parapet. If the group receives council permission a company will be formed immediately.

In addition to a $9,000 sewer which must be installed by the city before building could proceed, other services, including storm drains, parking areas and rock facing, will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

This money will be taken from the $130,000 received by the city and later repaid by the company.

The restaurant building, which will cost about $560,000, will provide dining facilities for 1,500. It will consist of a banquet hall, seating 600, and smaller dining areas on each of the remaining six floors of the seven-storey pagoda which will form the principal building of the complex.

There will also be a shop selling curios and art objects. It is expected that the new restaurant will give direct employment to about 110 people.

Growers Say:

Holly Hormones Not Used Here

Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Association has branded "completely erroneous" a report from Vancouver saying holly farmers are injecting their trees with hormones.

D. R. Philbrick, spokesman for the association, said Monday there is no such thing as a hormone-injected holly tree.

Mr. Philbrick said the holly branches are dipped in a preservative solution after they are cut to keep the berries and leaves in good condition.

USED 14 YEARS
"We have been using this method for 14 years," said Mr. Philbrick. "The solution was originally developed at the Stan-lishon experimental farm."

Vancouver Island holly farms produce 90 per cent of the holly grown in Canada.

Most of this year's $50,000 crop has been shipped to the Prairies and eastern Canada.

Big Hors d'Oeuvres

Biggest fish ever entered in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest, this 73½-pound Tyee salmon caught at Campbell River Aug. 9 by Patricia Hughes of West Vancouver, ended up on hors d'oeuvres table for Christmas dinner at Church of Ascension in Montreal. Chef for occasion was Joe Hem, shown here ready to start carving. Mr. Hem was 1961 Tyee King Fisherman with 65-pounder and at that time donated fish for special Montreal banquet.

'Discriminatory Legislation'

Ministers Cool To Labor Brief

A seven-point program to combat "existing discriminatory legislation" was submitted to the cabinet Monday by the B.C. Federation of Labor.

Federation president E. T. Staley, of Victoria, said after the 1½-hour meeting with the cabinet that cabinet ministers seemed unwilling to accept a number of recommendations contained in the federation's brief.

"We got a courteous hearing, a fair amount of time and opportunity to express our opinions but we were left with the feeling that the cabinet was unwilling to accept our opinions," he said.

STIFF RESISTANCE

Federation representatives encountered stiff resistance on matters of social legislation and more assistance for old people, but there was no reaction at all to a suggestion that the government should operate drug stores and turn liquor store operation over to private enterprise, he said.

Apparently the only point in which agreement was reached was the Indian question covered in a brief on human rights, which was also submitted to the cabinet, Mr. Staley said.

GOOD IDEA

He said Premier Bennett suggested that labor officials meet with federal and provincial Indian Affairs officials to discuss the situation. Mr. Staley said he thought this would be a good idea.

Though the cabinet devoted a lengthy period of time to the federation's submission, Mr. Staley said it is doubtful what results will come of it.

"The minds of the cabinet

ministers are not really centred on human welfare the way trade unionists are. As a result, it is difficult to get our points across," he said.

The labor body's annual brief says that employers are so encouraged by "existing discriminatory legislation" that "it is doubtful that there will be any significant improvements in the year ahead" in labor-management relations.

The brief calls for legislation that would:

- Set up a labor code guaranteeing rights to organize, bargain collectively, and strike;
- Repeal Bills 42, 43 and 123;
- Require grievance procedure before dismissal of employees;

- Force employers to show "proper cause" before any dismissals during union organization;
- Prohibit importation of strikebreakers;
- Prevent certification of non-union employees during a legal strike;
- Enable both sides in a dispute to present their cases fully before any recommendations from a conciliation officer, and to bypass normal procedure by seeking appointment of a competent mediator on mutual agreement.

The brief also criticizes B.C.'s giant forest companies and lists employer violations of labor laws with a plea for greater penalties and more enforcement.

The provincial government was also asked to establish drug stores throughout the province supplying drugs at cost.

AMBULANCE COSTS
Medicare, overhauled hospital financing and inclusion of ambulance costs under BCHS were urged.

Other recommendations call for consumer-protecting legislation regarding gasoline, car insurance, money-lending practices and interest rates, and meat inspection; a new approach to administering the Real Estate Act, Motor Vehicle Act amendments, and the appointment of an ombudsman.

Vancouver Man Tells Authors:

Victoria Is Likely to Have University of the Future

A Vancouver writer expects the University of Victoria to become the university of the future while Simon Fraser and UBC will be huge processing machines.

Harold Griffin, president of the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Authors Association, told the Victoria branch at its annual dinner Saturday, that Victoria could make the university pre-eminent in the arts and humanities.

Canada Council has a duty to encourage writers of promise whose work is not immediately saleable, he said.

Awards were presented to members in the annual competitions.

Downtown Merchants Oppose Free Parking on Meters

Victoria Downtown Business Association is solidly against the proposal of Ald. Robert Beard that free parking be allowed in the downtown area for a period prior to Christmas.

The merchants in the 700 block on Fort Street think the idea a good one — but with reservations.

NO TURNOVER

"We feel reasonably sure that by 9 a.m. on any morning free parking would be in effect, all metered parking spots would be taken up by all-day parkers and there would be no turnover until 5 p.m. or later," said the letter to city hall from the Downtown Business Association.

"Our desire is to have the greatest possible turnover in the metered zones. Further, Christmas is one time of year when no stimulus is required to get shoppers downtown," the letter added.

HOUS FREE

In the opinion of the 700 block merchants "office workers" would defeat the purpose of the proposal by parking their cars in the morning and leaving them all day. It was suggested as an alternative that people using the city parking buildings be granted the first hour free, "for here the matter could be controlled by building attendants."

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A new research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids. Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Solution of Puzzle: No Strings Attached

By DON GAIN

Puzzles as Christmas presents seem to be losing their popularity but there is one puzzle that still remains unsolved. Why do people buy expensive Christmas gifts and then send them through the mail so poorly wrapped that they become undeliverable?

★ ★ ★ Last year in Victoria undelivered gifts included a color slide projector, a watch, a hearing aid complete with battery, fishing equipment and a ring.

The post office normally rewraps 20 to 30 parcels a day. During the Christmas season the number runs into the hundreds. But if the parcel has lost its address it can't be forwarded or returned.

★ ★ ★ Postmaster Allan Davies said Monday Christmas cards were running about 400,000 a day and will build up to a peak of 600,000 by Thursday.

"We are delivering approximately 3,000 parcels a day at the moment. This will go up very quickly to 8,000 by Friday which should be the peak."

After the peak the mails drop off very quickly, he said.

★ ★ ★ "We expect to handle 12,000,000 cards and 500,000 parcels this season."

Sunday was the last day for Christmas mail in Canada including B.C. Dec. 17 is the deadline for Victoria mail.

Last sorting of mail will be Dec. 23 with the last pre-Christmas delivery Dec. 24. There will be no mail delivery after that date until Dec. 28.

★ ★ ★ Here are some mailing hints: ● Wrap parcels in heavy brown paper and tie them securely with twine.

● Put return address on all letters, cards and parcels.

● Make sure mailing address is correct as to street, number, city, province, etc.

● Put on sufficient postage.

● Sort mail into city and out-of-town mail and put into bundles and label.

Merry Christmas!

Professionals May Face Stiffer Ban

Professional drivers convicted of impaired driving may face stiffer licence suspensions than they are accustomed to, a Victoria magistrate warned Monday.

Magistrate William Outler remanded a Victoria truck driver to next Monday for sentence and ordered a pre-sentence report.

Gary Brown, 612 Catherine, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and told the magistrate he needed his driver's licence to make a living.

"ALARMING"

"There has been a very alarming increase in the number of impaired driving offences in this community," said Magistrate Outler. "Some firm stand has to be taken. People who drive for a living should think about that."

Magistrates have, in the past, softened suspensions by barring the impaired professional drivers only from pleasure driving.

Convicted shift workers and suburban area residents have also received consideration by courts in driving bans in the past.

In many cases they have been ordered to drive only to and from work.

BACKED BY STATISTICS

The impaired driving increase noted by the magistrate is supported by police and motor vehicle branch statistics.

In Victoria police say impaired driving is up 150 per cent in 1964 with 1963. Oak Bay convictions are up 50 per cent and Saanich 22 per cent.

Cold Air On Way

Arctic air from Alaska is pouring down the B.C. interior and is expected to spill over toward Vancouver Island today, says weatherman William Mackie.

"A person would be well advised to be prepared for cold weather," he said.

Mr. Mackie expected snow showers to develop here overnight and carry on today.

Fare-Shocked Leaders Seek Cabinet Interview

By A. H. MURPHY

Faced with the highest bus fares in Canada, Greater Victoria municipal leaders were determined Monday to get an interview with Premier Bennett and the provincial cabinet.

They were shocked and surprised when the news was received that the Public Utilities Commission approved urban transit rates, less than that asked by B.C. Hydro but far in excess of what most Victorians thought they should be.

"This is most unpleasant news," said Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"We will get together and decide on a course of action," said Reeve Allan Cox, of Oak Bay.

"It's a move calculated to lose public goodwill for the transit system," said Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

Mayor Wilson will meet, probably on Wednesday, with Mayor William Rathie, of Vancouver, and Mayor Stuart Gifford, of New Westminster, to discuss how and when to approach the cabinet.

The new rates:

Adults—20 cents cash or four tickets for 75 cents.

Students—15 cents cash or four tickets for 50 cents.

Children—10 cents cash or four tickets for 30 cents.

Premier Bennett was later reported as saying that the mayor "knows how to approach the cabinet. We'll be glad to hear their proposal."

Rathie Plans Appeal

The premier added that it wasn't his job to comment on the PUC decision.

In Vancouver Mayor Rathie said he would call a meeting of mayors and Reeves of the affected municipalities. He would then propose that the decision be appealed.

B.C. Hydro asked for a 25-cent cash fare or five tickets for $1 for adults and a 15-cent fare for children.

Victoria fares now are 13 cents cash or four tickets for 50 cents for adults and a five-cent fare for children.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, Hydro co-chairman, said the authority will have "no recourse but to accept the PUC ruling." He said the 25-cent, five-ticket fare was "the minimum requirement and even then we would lose money." The new rates will go into effect Jan. 1, said Dr. Shrum.

The commission ruling will make transit fares here and in Vancouver higher than those of any other Canadian city by three-quarters of a cent. Windsor is now the highest at 19 cents.

The PUC based its ruling on a clause in Hydro's franchise with Vancouver which prohibits rates "that more than meet revenue requirements."

No Fair Return

It was felt that the proposed 25-cent rate would not cover the cost of economical service and give the Hydro a fair return in Victoria but that it would be odd to have rates higher in Greater Victoria than in Vancouver.

On the other hand, said the Hydro press release telling of the PUC decision, there could be no justification for lower rates in Victoria.

Mayor Wilson said that now that the question was no longer before the PUC there could be little excuse for the cabinet not seeing members of the committee.

tee of mayors and Reeves from Victoria and the lower mainland, which was set up to fight the increase.

"I'm not too surprised," said the mayor. "When you consider the strait-jacket the PUC was placed in by the terms of reference imposed by the provincial government, they couldn't do much else."

"It's a serious matter for the whole community, particularly in view of the fact that it was brought out at the hearings that the transit system equipment was antiquated as any in Canada," Mayor Wilson added.

Damage to Goodwill

Both Reeve Cox and Reeve Wurtele were concerned about how the fare boost would damage public goodwill toward the system—this in view of the fact that the municipalities might have to take it all over in a year or so.

"If the municipalities have to take over the system when our franchisees run out in 1967 it is going to be a matter of serious concern to us if the public has lost the inclination and desire to ride on buses. We may well need that public goodwill at that time," he continued.

Reeve Cox said that Oak Bay council had hoped that the decision to raise fares would not be made effective until negotiations had had a chance to talk the matter over with the government.

"The government simply refused to talk to us when the matter was before the PUC and we were hoping for an interval between the time that a decision was made and released. Apparently that didn't happen."

ently this is not to be," said Reeve Cox.

"We are going to try once again for a meeting with the premier and cabinet. This whole transportation problem has got to be discussed, not merely the question of urban transit," the Reeve concluded.

Herring Quota Extended

Herring are so plentiful along the upper east coast of Vancouver Island that the department of fisheries has extended the quota by 5,000 tons.

This extension effective at once last Sunday, will bring this area's 1964-65 season quota to 20,000 tons.

The original 10,000-ton herring catch quota was extended to 15,000 tons on Oct. 6, and this has now been extended again because the supply is "considered adequate to permit this additional fishing," said a fisheries spokesman.

Hardest Hit by Boost

Pensioners, Children

Increased bus fares are going to add up to more loneliness for Victoria's old people, in the opinion of Mrs. Katharine Horne, executive director of Silver Threads Service.

"Many of the pensioners who come to us just won't be able to make it more than once a week with the increased fares," said Mrs. Horne.

"On the days when they are kept at home by increased fares they face the loneliness that is such a problem to many of them."

"It's too bad that the old people and the children are the ones who are hardest hit," Mrs. Horne concluded.

"This is a nice Christmas present for the people of Victoria, I must say," commented Mrs. Evelyn Peaker, president of the Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria.

"We're encouraged by the fact that the increase isn't as great as that asked by the Hydro but we know, of course, that it is going to be a severe hardship to a great many people, particularly pensioners and old people on fixed incomes."

Fares on B.C. Hydro buses should be five cents for school children and 10 cents for everyone else, says Alfred Barrett, of 11 Hibernian Crescent.

Furthermore, said Mr. Barrett, "there should be special buses which would carry old-age pensioners who would be provided with a special card with their pictures attached. These people should get special consideration."

Blaze Destroys Langford House

'Blind Luck' Saves Three

By AL ARNABSON

Blind luck cheated a runaway Langford house fire of three lives Sunday, said survivor Mrs. Louise Rich.

"I'm still not sure what I actually remember and what is just in my imagination," the 27-year-old housewife said Monday.

She dragged her five-year-old son Darcy out the rear bedroom window of the flame-filled building to the ground 20 feet below. She does not remember how she got out of the house but believes she must have jumped from the window.

Room Blazing

"I can remember the whole living room and everything on the main floor was blazing. I saw the tiles curling up behind me on the floor as I went to Darcy's room," she said.

A friend of the family, Miss Sandra Sanderson, 21, of Calgary, escaped by crawling out her window and crossing the carport roof.

The $20,000 home, owned by Mrs. E. A. Poole, Tahsis, B.C., was destroyed. A piano and a pool table were the only items saved.

Husband Away

Mrs. Rich's husband Larry, a long-distance trucker, was away when the blaze struck at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. He returned Sunday night.

The family had just purchased all their furniture, which was not insured.

"All that matters is that I still have you and Darcy. We started from nothing before and we can do it again," Mrs. Rich quoted her husband Monday.

House Insured

The house was insured by the owner, as was a quantity of furniture left in the rented two-level structure.

Mrs. Rich said an inspector from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver questioned her early Monday about the blaze.

She said preliminary investigations indicate the fire could have started above the eight-year-old home's near-new oil furnace.

Twenty-two members of the Langford Volunteer Fire Department under deputy chief Allan Le Quenne answered the alarm, fire chief David Smith said Monday.

They poured water on the building from two standpipe-type hydrants using both the force's pumper trucks.

The chief discounted stories circulating at the fire scene that the nearest hydrant did not work.

"Both the standpipes are working fine," he said. "The people who say differently simply made a mistake. To make the standpipes work you have to lift a wooden box cover and turn a valve."

"To someone who isn't a firefighter that might look like something wasn't working right."

It also is routine to hook up the second pumper to the nearest standpipe so plenty of water is available, he explained.

Gifts Lost

"For the first time, I did my Christmas shopping early," said Mrs. Rich ruefully.

The gifts were all lost in the fire.

The family is staying at the home of Mrs. Rich's brother, George Graham, 305 Gull Road.

Singing for Christmas

George Jay elementary school choir, supplemented by members of city hall staff, sang Christmas carols from 8:45 to 9:15 a.m. Monday. Voices, which were piped out over Pandora Avenue and Centennial Square from city hall, will be heard every morning this week. Choirs from several city elementary schools will participate.—(William A. Boucher)

Illegal Signs Doomed

Saanich municipal crews will start removing about 1,000 illegal signs after Jan. 15.

The advertising signs have been erected on road allowances throughout the municipality, and council has advertised a removal notice in order that anyone wanting to preserve a sign will have time to remove it.

Thieves Raid Pacific Club

Thieves broke into the Pacific Club during the weekend and stole $490 plus an unknown amount from cigarette machines.

Cash registers in the second storey and main floor bars were rifled and locked desk drawers were pried open.

Early Holiday Warms Pupils

Repairs were made over the weekend to the boiler at Cloverdale school, and pupils return to school today.

Students in the main building were given an unexpected holiday Monday after a section of the heating system broke and had to be replaced.

Latins Pamper Their Husbands

By MAGGY O'DOOL

SANTIAGO, Chile—U.S. men with Latin wives have a moony kind of expression on their faces most of the time. Their eyes look kind of dreamy, too. It's enough to give a red-blooded American gal the willies.

Most of them talk about their wives at the drop of a conversational comma, and they say the silliest things.

What do you think one of them told this reporter? He said, "you can put it in the paper that Latin American girls make better wives than Americans. I know. I married one."

Girls from Latin countries still know who's boss in the family, see?" this same fellow added.

"When I come home, my slippers are out, my chair is pulled up to the fire, my maid is ice cold, and my wife's kiss is red hot."

"The children and I play awhile, then they are whisked away to bed. I have another martini while my wife ruffles my hair and whispers sweet things into my ear. Then we saunter in to dinner, or, sometimes, my wife piles my plate high and brings it to me in my easy chair."

"Fact is, in the United States the little women run the house, the kids, the bank account and the husband. On top of it, they turn every conversation into a discussion of hats, recipes or new slippers."

"Nine out of 10 men in the U.S. live with women who dominate them. The poor things can't understand how it happened, but it did."

"My advice to them is, come south, young men, and find a soul mate. The South American girls are still content to be pretty, quiet and docile to their husbands."

"Why, I've been married five years, and I feel as strong as Sampson!" said this fellow, flexing his biceps.

"My strength is like the strength of 10," he added, "and I owe it all to the little woman!" His wife put it a little differently.

"American women are so magnificent!" she said. "So strong, so competent. Most of them seem to have careers on the side."

"When I think of how little I know," she added, "why, I just couldn't get along at all without my great big wonderful husband!"

"Did you get that?" he said. (Copy News Service)

Gorge Vale Club For Reception

Queen of Peace Church, Esquimalt, was decorated with white chrysanthemums, Saturday evening, when Fr. J. P. MacDonald heard marriage vows exchanged between Barbara Cecelia Edgington and William Andrew Maitland. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin styled with a rounded neckline and long lily point sleeves. The bodice and full skirt of the gown were accented with seed pearls. A four-tier veil pouffed to shoulder-length from a coronet of pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Bridesmaid, Miss Lynn McTier, wore a turquoise satin sheath-style gown highlighted with a matching overskirt. Her headpiece was a toning flower edged in net and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Edward Sheriff was best man and guests were ushered to their pews by Mervin Snedden and Arnold Middleton.

Douglas Edgington proposed the toast to his niece at a reception that followed in the Gorge Vale Golf Club. The head table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink roses and topped with pink and white bells.

The bride's going-away outfit was a pink wool suit with black accessories. White carnations formed her corsage.

The couple is now making their home in Victoria.

Anglican Women Celebrate Sixty Years of Service

The Diocesan Board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church met in St. Mark's Church on Friday and commenced with the Service of Holy Communion in celebration of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the W.A. in this Diocese. Archbishop H. E. Sexton was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. Canon Robert Willis. At the conclusion of this service a Diocesan Life membership was conferred on Mrs. B. Hamilton by the members of St. Mark's W.A. The offering at the service, amounting to $94.85 was given to the Anglican World Mission.

Mrs. J. H. Kaiser welcomed the members to the meeting which followed in the Parish Hall. Two new life members were welcomed, Mrs. A. Mitchell of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, and Mrs. T. Hamilton. Mrs. E. Heathfield was presented with a corsage on her retirement from the presidency of St. Mark's Afternoon Branch. Mrs. C. W. Head is the new president. Miss Dora Brown, acting treasurer showed receipts of $7,868.81 and disbursements of $1,871.12. Bank balance totalled $19,924.73.

Extra Cents Secretary, Mrs. C. T. Skinner reported an appeal sent back to Pakistan to assist with the education of Pakistan women in this work. Miss Elsa Peter is in charge of this, money was unanimously voted for the repair of the church. There is the sum of $1044.83 in this fund which is used for appeals to assist with the repairs and furnishings to the Churches, Parish Halls and rectories where needed. There was a large display of Pakistan embroideries. The members had luncheon before dispersing. At the table was 60th birthday cake which was cut and distributed among those present. Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, president, was chairman for the meeting.

Causes Sensation

In Bombay

Nine Year Old Helps Family

By RUKMINI DEVI

BOMBAY (CP)—A nine-year-old girl is causing a good deal of commotion in this city.

She is Shanti, Bombay's first female shoe-shiner. Almond-eyed, with long tresses dangling on both sides of her shoulders, efficient and always smiling, Shanti has descended on the hitherto purely male world of shoe-shiners like a tiny bomb.

On her first day Shanti earned 35 cents. In a week business picked up phenomenally and now she earns anything from 90 cents to $2 during 10 solid hours of polishing near Bombay's Flora Fountain.

For little Shanti, the money means a lot. Her father is ill and unemployed. Her mother works as a sweeping woman for four homes and makes $12 a month. There is a baby brother to be looked after.

But the city's 1,800 shoe-shine boys are up in arms against her.

Saravasa Muthu, 19, a gentle youngster from Tanjore, 800 miles from Bombay, said: "Shoe polishing has always been a man's profession. I have worked in Madras, Delhi, Calcutta and other cities but I never came across a girl doing this work. If more girls come in, what will happen to us?"

Harl Charan, a shoe-shiner from Delhi, said: "A hundred girls like Shanti could wreck the whole profession."

The boys are clearly jealous of Shanti's popularity with office workers some of whom tip her an extra paisa as a token of appreciation.

Shanti's shoe-shine outfit cost her $1. This consists of an up-turned wooden box on which the customer rests one foot, a dozen bottles containing polish and cream, brushes and pieces of linen.

Apple Ornaments

Many of us are in the habit of thinking only of imported fruits for Christmas and as a change-of-pace from those heavy desserts and snacks. The fact is that several varieties of home-grown apples—as well as those delectable Anjou pears—are at their peak at this time of year, unbeatable for color, appearance and flavor.

In this premium class are two varieties of Canadian apples which are the equal of any imported fruit. They are Golden Delicious and the Red Delicious apples... a feast for the eyes as well as the appetite—succulent in flavor, vibrant golden-yellow and rich, ruby-red in color!

Be sure to include Anjou pears in your Christmas fruit. The Anjou is a late season pear—at its best during the early winter months. These beauties are large, firm and almost oval—if they're slightly green when you get them home from the store, keep at room temperature and they'll ripen perfectly. They're ready to eat just as soon as the first yellow tinge appears on the skin.

Speaking of Christmas, here's a novel idea for apple ornaments.

Carefully wash and dry 6 to 8 apples. Prepare one package of White Frosting Mix according to directions. When frosting holds shape, spread it evenly over each apple, making designs as you work. As frosting "sets" on apples, arrange small candles or cake decorations in an imaginative pattern. Place rounds of cardboard under small paper doilies. Lift each apple onto doily by sliding pancake turner underneath and steady the apple by its stem.

Traditionalists will choose creamy ones and grown-ups who prefer fruit smooth banana eggnog; the young drinks will enjoy holiday fruit punch.

Tropic Touched Drinks Help Holiday Parties

When it comes to festive holiday beverages, the question almost always arises... eggnog, or not? True, it's as traditional as can be, but what about the small fry? Too rich for them. And, there are grown-ups who'd rather have a fruit drink, please.

So, to charm all holiday comers, why not make two tropic-touched beverages? A creamy and smooth banana eggnog for the traditionalists; a bright and sparkling Holiday Fruit Punch for the young ones and their older non-eggnog friends.

Spirited or not, Banana Eggnog is hard to resist, with extra-delicious flavor and smoothness that comes from cream-of-the-tropics bananas. They're the ones that have been carefully boxed right where they're grown to protect them on their long journey from Middle America. Mashed, for the eggnog, or sliced on top of colorful Holiday Fruit Punch, nothing but the "best" bananas will do.

Both beverages can be served from one table, and if a second bowl is not available, the punch looks just as pretty in a pitcher. Slices of fruitcake or cookies make good go-withs.

To your very good health.

Beat egg yolks and ¼ cup sugar in large bowl until light in color. Mash bananas, thoroughly with fork or in electric blender. Combine bananas and lemon juice, beat into egg yolks. Add cream, milk and (optional) cognac. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually add ½ cup sugar while continuing to beat until soft peaks form. Carefully fold into milk-cream mixture. Refrigerate at least one hour. Makes about 3 quarts.

HOLIDAY FRUIT PUNCH
One 44-oz. can unsweetened pineapple juice, 1 quart cranberry juice cocktail, 1 one-pt. 12-oz. bottle ginger ale, ½ cup lemon juice, 2 bananas, sliced. Combine first four ingredients. Stir in punch bowl. Float banana slices on top. Makes about 3 quarts.

Party Dips

Flavor apple sauce with curry powder to taste. Spread on crackers.

Mash and salt avocado meat. Beat well with apple sauce. Mix, chopped walnuts through. Serve on crackers or fingers of rye bread.

Combine 2 cups apple sauce with 1 cup coarsely shredded sharp cheddar cheese. Use as dip for potato chips or saltines. Makes about 3 cups.

ALLA MARRALA

2 pounds veal cutlets, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon olive oil, 2 tablespoons Marsala wine, 2 tablespoons beef stock or bouillon.

The veal cutlets should be quite thin, Italian style, or pounded thin between sheets of waxed paper at home. Cut the veal into 3-inch squares, put it into a brown paper bag with the flour, salt and pepper, and bounce it around and get all the meat well coated.

Hot up the butter or margarine with the olive oil and over high heat quickly brown the meat on both sides. Don't overcook the veal. Remove it to a heated platter—put a platter on a large pot of hot water, put the cooked veal on platter and cover it with another plate. In the same pan, brown the minced onion over medium heat. Add the wine and then the beef stock or bouillon and simmer it for a minute, scraping the pan and stirring. Pour the oniony-wine sauce over the veal and serve it, maybe with:

SPAGHETTI

ALLA CARBONARA

2 eggs, beaten; ½ cup cheese grated (Parmesan, Romano, or a combination of both); 6 slices bacon, fried crisp, drained and crumbled; 1 pound spaghetti, cooked and well drained; freshly ground black pepper.

Beat the eggs and the cheese together. Add the crumbled bacon. The spaghetti, which shouldn't be cooked more than 8 minutes in boiling salted water, should remain in the pot in which it was cooked, after the water has been drained off. Now this next operation demands deftness and quickness. Pour over the spaghetti the egg-cheese-bacon mixture and toss it all quickly, combining the spaghetti and the mixture thoroughly, so that all of the pasta is well-coated. The reason the spaghetti is left in the pot in which it was cooked is that it must be quite hot. The heat of the pasta cooks the egg, see? Sprinkle it with black pepper just before serving. This should serve 5 or 6.

Tomorrow: Creme Brulee. (Released by The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1964)

Christmas Books Sent

At a recent meeting of Sir James and Lady Douglas IODE held at the home of Mrs. M. Cockram, Lansdowne Road, it was reported by Mrs. A. L. Hayes that books would be sent as Christmas presents to the chapter's two adopted schools, Allison Pass and Kipling.

It was agreed to send a donation to the Food Stall, the VON and Commonwealth Relations Fund. Cards will be sent to shut-in members and calendars will go to several schools.

Sheer Wonder

TE KUITI, New Zealand (CP)—Pam Warren of Motuea achieved a tally of 285 sheep and lambs, all long-wooled, shorn in one day here, in her normal working day, under shed conditions, she working as a member of a shearing gang. It is believed to qualify easily as a world record for women.

REVIEW NO. 1

The Rose Court Juniors of the WBA Review No. 1 will hold their Christmas party on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 22 in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. where there will be exchange of gifts. Mrs. E. Harrison, junior supervisor, will convene the affair. Telephone EV 2-4470.

THE DIFFERENCE IN SWEET VERMOUTHS

Most brands of sweet vermouth are slightly heavier than Martini & Rossi. They smell stronger... taste stronger, and look a little darker in the glass. Some people prefer them.

Martini & Rossi is a lighter vermouth. It is famous for its light, yet lively taste. Because of this, it is more subtle in cocktails... more refreshing on the rocks. Many people prefer it.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A certain man in the office has been bragging to everyone in sight that after inhaling two packs a day for 15 years he has quit smoking. What he means is he has quit BUYING cigarettes.

Every time I look up, he's begging a cigarette from somebody. Last week he bummed at least ten cigarettes from me and I am sick of it.

This morning I reached the end of my patience. When he came by my desk and asked for a cigarette I said, "Why don't you buy your own for a change?" He replied, "Because I have quit smoking. If I buy cigarettes I'll start smoking again, and the doctor says I shouldn't."

What would you do in a case like this, Ann Landers?

STUMPED. Dear Stumped: The next time the moocher comes by and asks for a cigarette remind him about the doctor's orders.

Give him a mint instead. In fact, be a sport and give him a whole roll of mints. This might make him feel so cheap that he could either start buying his own cigarettes or his own mints.

Dear Ann Landers: Some close friends returned from vacation $2,000 richer. They figured out a system to beat the dice tables. It worked like a charm.

One friend has offered to cut my husband in on the system for $1,000. I'm against it. My husband says we've got to be crazy to pass up a chance like this. I know it's a long shot but is it worth the investment?—SECOND GUESSER.

Dear Guesser: Who do you think pays for the thick carpets and the fancy trimmings in those gambling joints? Wise guys like your friend who thought they could outsmart the experts.

Some people like to gamble for the fun of it and I have no quarrel with them — if their bills are paid.

The most sensible system for people who gamble for entertainment is this: Set aside whatever you can afford to throw away and never miss. Consider it the price of the evening's fun. When it's gone—and it will be—go home and forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the mother of a retarded child. I read with interest the letter from the girl whose 15-year-old brother is retarded.

The father of the boy was mistaken when he said, "The boy is a fool and nothing can be done about it." The mother was wrong, too, when she said, "This is our cross and we must bear it." A great deal CAN be done to help retarded children. The mother and father who do nothing are fools and society bears the cross after the do-nothing parents pass on.

There are 5,500,000 mentally retarded children and adults in the United States. Each year approximately 120,000 join this group. It would be disastrous if ALL parents thought this way.

Retarded children are not stupid and they are not crazy. They can learn if someone will take the time and patience to teach them.

Too often the retarded child is spoiled because he is allowed to get away with things for which the normal child would be punished. Doesn't it stand to reason that ANY child who is undisciplined will grow up to be a problem to himself and to others?

Parents of retarded children have an obligation to educate themselves so they can help their children develop their abilities to the maximum. They can get information from their city, county or provincial Association for Retarded Children.—A MOTHER.

Couple Married At Dingle House

An arch of white chrysanthemums and holly, flanked by standards of the same flowers, decorated the Dingle House this afternoon when Joan Lee Randall exchanged marriage vows with Frederick James Thompson.

Rev. G. H. Turpin officiated at the ceremony and organist was Ken Peaker.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Randall, 852 Dunsmuir Road. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Thompson, 1162 Old Esquimalt Road.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white French powder-puff lace over silk organza and satin highlighted with a matching lace overskirt. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Her illusion veil misted to waist-length from a flat lace bow headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids and feathered chrysanthemums, surrounded with white leaves, net and holly leaves. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her attendants, the Misses Sharon Brown and Gwen Nelson, wore identical street-length gowns of emerald green velvet. Their headpieces were large white chrysanthemums, beaded with holly leaves. White feathered chrysanthemums and streamers formed their cascade bouquets.

Jerry Rushton was best man and guests were ushered to their seats by Charlie Sallis.

A three-tier all-white wedding cake, topped with hybrid orchids, centred the bride's table at a reception in the Dingle House. S. C. Moffat proposed the toast to his granddaughter.

The bride's going-away outfit was a two-piece pink Bernat Klein wool suit with alligator accessories in light brown. An orchid corsage completed the ensemble.

Only out-of-town guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. R. Denholm and Mrs. A. J. Hall, all of Vancouver.

7 delightful and original ways to solve your Christmas gift problems

There's something exciting for everyone on your Christmas list among these attractive gifts from B.C. TEL.

Now, for the first time, you can make a present of long distance calls with an attractive new LONG DISTANCE GIFT CERTIFICATE ①.

Another gift, always popular in busy families, is a second line—with a pushbutton phone ② that can handle two or more calls simultaneously. Or what about the glamorous little Starlite ③?

People who like to go on using their hands as they talk will delight in the new speakerphone ④—the very latest in "hands free" phoning. For really gracious living give that special someone the melodious bell chime ⑤ to replace their ordinary phone bell. And for the hard-of-hearing there's the voice amplifying handset ⑥ with a variable volume knob like a radio.

The ever-popular standard extension phone being used by the young lady on the cushions ⑦ is a welcome gift for practically anyone. In the kitchen, bedroom or den it can save your wife thousands of steps a year, thrill your son or daughter, delight a friend or relative. It comes in a range of nine lovely decorator colors.

For any of these items you can mail a Gift Certificate or present your gift in person. Costs are surprisingly low and in most cases you can pay with small monthly additions to your own phone bill.

Travel Heavy Victorians Seek Hawaii Sun

Many Victorians will be sure of a golden Christmas this year, the gold coming from the sun shine of Hawaii.

They'll be among thousands of Victorians who are spending Christmas away from home.

A travel agency reported slightly heavier volume of business this year with Hawaiian bookings being particularly heavy.

"Very busy" is the word from Air Canada with many extra sections planned for scheduled flights.

Flights to Vancouver and Seattle are already booked up, as are many overseas flights.

Local travel promises to be heavy. Vancouver Island Coach Lines is getting many inquiries about the Christmas runs. The schedules are unchanged, but extra buses will be laid on if necessary.

DOUBLE SAILINGS
No extra runs are planned by Washington State Ferries, but B.C. Ferries will in some cases double its sailings.

There will be an hourly schedule Dec. 22 to 24 and Dec. 26 to 28 and the ordinary winter schedule in operation Christmas Day on the Vancouver-Victoria and the Nanaimo-Horseshoe Bay runs.

There will be extra trips on other government ferry runs, and the Gulf Island trips will be made on the Friday schedule Christmas Eve. On Christmas Day the Thursday schedule will be followed.

Britain First To Accept Invitation

Britain has officially accepted the B.C. Government invitation to take part in the 1967 British Columbia International Trade Fair it was reported Monday.

She is the first overseas country to do so.

The news of the acceptance was conveyed to Trade and Industries minister Ralph Lofmark by the High Commissioner to Canada Sir Henry Lisson.

The fair will take place in Vancouver and British Trade Commissioners in B.C. Noel Belam will be in charge of the British exhibit.

Quesnel Vote Confirmed

QUESNEL (CP) — A recount of ballots cast in the municipal elections here confirmed that Scott Laidlaw was elected alderman. Fred Adcock, who trailed Laidlaw by 17 votes, requested the recount. It showed that Laidlaw won by 18 votes—383 to 401.

Sea-Going Santa Sets Sail Saturday

IMPORTED IN BOTTLE FROM SCOTLAND

This advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia

Santa Claus deserts his reindeer, Saturday and Sunday, and takes to the water in a 65-foot yacht.

The sea-going Santa is sponsored by the Jaycees for a two-day visit to children of the Gulf and San Juan Islands who, because they live far from stores, find it hard to get a pre-Christmas glimpse of Santa.

The Jaycees, thanks to owner and skipper K. J. Norgaard, will take the Blue Fjord, its hold filled with candies, toys and oranges, to 11 comparatively isolated ports.

Friday, the Blue Fjord will be at Oak Bay Marina, illuminated for public viewing, and the next morning at 7 a.m. it will leave for Roche Harbor, Friday Harbor, Deer Harbor, Waldron Island and, a new stop this year, Bedwell Harbor.

It ties up that night at Ganges and leaves the next day for Sibell Bay, Kuper Island, Vesuvius Bay, Maple Bay, Shoal Harbor and home.

The Jaycees are being assisted with their gift-giving by the people of the San Juan Island, particularly those of Friday Harbor where the ship will take on gifts of fruit and candy for Gulf Islands children.

Bellingham Jaycees and the Victoria group are co-operating to print a newspaper for distribution at each port of call. The paper will feature pictures of the Blue Fjord and the Bellingham Christmas Ship with the history of each and the schedule in map form.

City Fire Department Buying 'Tower' Truck

A new $50,893 aerial ladder truck will be purchased for the city fire department, it was decided Monday at a meeting of the fire wardens' committee.

Fire Chief John Abbott told members of the committee that the area civil defence organization would contribute $5,000 toward the cost.

The new piece of equipment will have a water tower which can be remotely controlled by electricity.

It will enable firemen to pour 500 gallons of water or foam into a building without having a man at the top to guide its direction. The present aerial truck, bought in 1938, will go into the reserve equipment pool to be used in case of need, said Chief Abbott.

St. Joseph's Bed-Stay Below National Average

The report was presented to the hospital's medical staff by Dr. J. L. Heffernan, chairman of the committee that undertook the study.

The report shows the average length of stay at St. Joseph's had dropped from 132 days in 1954 to 102 this year.

NO COMPLICATIONS

The study involved 14 surgical cases and one medical diagnosis. There were no complications in any of the cases.

Through the use of computer facilities in Ann Arbor, Mich., the committee was able to compare the figures for St. Joseph's with Canadian and United States averages for patients with a specific diagnosis.

The study showed in 11 cases the average at St. Joseph's was lower than the Canadian average; in five cases lower than the United States average; in one case the same as the Canadian average and in three cases it was higher.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Among the recommendations to the medical staff contained in the report were:

- Dismissing patients from the hospital earlier in the day.
- Keeping a register of patients repeatedly seeking admission under different physicians.

sequent use of the Gorge Road Hospital.

- The use of empty obstetrical beds for non-infectious gynaecologic cases.
- Earlier and more frequent use of the Gorge Road Hospital.

The report indicated more rehabilitative and convalescent beds could increase the utilization of acute beds.

Youths Questioned After Hit-and-Run

Two youths are faced with charges in connection with a hit-and-run incident in which a 14-year-old boy was knocked to the pavement in a Saanich crosswalk Monday.

The youths, one 18 and the other 17, were questioned by Saanich police after Ronald Hie, 3419 Veteran, was struck by a hit-and-run vehicle at Richmond and Lansdowne at about 1 a.m. The boy was released from Royal Jubilee Hospital after being treated for a bruised hip. Police questioned the two high school students after checking out a licence number taken at the accident scene by a witness.

OLYMPIC MOTOR HOTEL

A circus is coming to town
this week, and Grandma, Grandpa and all the other children are invited.

It's the Kiddie Circus, a specialty number of Ice Capades which opens at Memorial Arena Wednesday.

There are tail-skating kangaroos who'll bounce around the ice to the tune of Tie Me Kangaroo Down, Sport, and a twohumped camel on skates who "gallumphs, glops and lollops" on the ice.

Then there are veteran ice comedians Stan Belliveau and Hans Mueller, a couple of zanies sure to spark laughter from everyone.

The older "kids" aren't forgotten in Kiddie Circus either as one of the numbers features 22-year-old Ann-Margret Frei, a petite, Swedish-born champion skater.

Almost 100 skaters are used in Ice Capades which features five other production numbers.

Tickets, from $2 to $3, are available at Hudson's Bay Co., or Memorial Arena for the four-day show.

Artistic Unity

Christmas Oratorio Musical Achievement

By BERT BINNY

There have been outstanding examples of great musical accomplishment in Victoria over the weekend.

Back around 1734 Johann Sebastian Bach received a request for approximately four hours of religious music; actually six cantatas for six Sundays at Christmas.

This was no inconsiderable demand, but Bach was equal to the occasion.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

Everything connected with the Christmas Oratorio—as the six cantatas have come to be known —suggest accomplishment.

The Victoria Symphony orchestra along with four choirs and six soloists performed this Christmas oratorio Monday evening and Sunday afternoon—not all of it; just the first three parts, most nearly connected with Christmas.

It was all excellently organized—an achievement when so many individuals from varying artistic bodies are involved.

EFFECTIVE STAGING

The staging arrangements, for instance, were most effective inasmuch as crowding, if present at all, was not noticeable; the sound system was really fine and there was a unity among the performers which was highly credible both to them and to conductor Otto-Werner Mueller.

The use of even one strip of footlights would have improved the picture of the soloists but, apparently, the symphony has reasons for avoiding footlights altogether.

All these factors, however, were merely contributory to the main effect which was the music—another outstanding accomplishment. The Royal Theatre was filled to capacity on Sunday afternoon and this large audience recalled the soloists repeatedly.

CAUGHT SPIRIT

Bass Stanley Martin of Victoria provided a really lovely performance. He conveyed the honest impression that he believed what he was singing and thus caught the whole spirit of the oratorio.

Tenor Robert Peters of Toronto seemed to exert unnecessary pressure on a fine voice; perhaps he failed to credit the nearby microphone with all the sensitivity it actually possessed.
Soprano Margaret Abbott and contralto Eleanor Duff were both excellent and dramatically impressive and bass Derek Mac-Dermott upheld the high standard of the performance.

MARKED CLARITY

The part of the Angel was sung with clear success by Bill Dyson of the Christ Church Cathedral Boys' Choir.

The Victoria Choral Society, the Vera Barilay and the Gayler Singers and the Boys' Choir made up the large choral group.
With such a massive choir it is not hard to sacrifice finesse on the altar of mere volume. This did occasionally occur but by no means invariably; clarity and definition were the rule rather than the exception.

Organist for the oratorio was Richard Proudman with Timothy Vernon at the harpsichord.

TIME OFF

The symphony now takes time off for Christmas and New Year's. The next program is scheduled for Jan. 17 and 18 in Victoria and Jan. 15 in Sidney.
Guest conductor Michel Perreault will lead the orchestra in two of his own compositions:
Suite of French-Canadian Songs and a Suite from the Ballet, Sea Gallows.

Completing the program will be Mendelssohn's 4th (Italian) Symphony and Handel's Concerto Grosso No. 7.

Arson Blamed For Major Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Investigators have blamed arson for a $30,000 fire that destroyed a junk warehouse in Vancouver
Sunday night, setting off a fireworks display of burning magnesium.

They said a fire was started in a truck parked beside the Atlantic Junk Company warehouse and an attempt was made to light a fire in a second truck.

Marriage School Prepared

A steering committee will complete plans Wednesday night for a School for Marriage scheduled to start 8 p.m., Jan.
18, at the YWCA.

Lecture topics and speakers for each of the eight weeks of the course will be decided at the committee meeting.

Chairman of the committee is
Rev. G. H. Turpin. Also present will be Magr. M. T. O'Connell,
Rev. Bernard Hanley, Canon
Hilary Butler, Gordon Wright, Family and Children's Service director, lawyer W. E. Whitley and Miss Lorna Cammaert, adult education director for the YWCA.

The course will include study of the place of the family in society; moral and spiritual preparation for marriage and legal and economic aspects with emphasis on budget, mortgages and home management.
Physiological, sexual and emotional factors in marriage will also be dealt with.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Though bridge is generally thought of

as a game of cold

logic, experienced players make many good moves by instinct. Sitting South, would you have made the right play at trick

two without prolonged thought?

In the balancing position, a simple overall can be made with quite a modest hand. With values equal to or stronger than an opening bid,

a takeout double is usually better than an overall. This was so when West's one spade opening rode round to South. The final contract could have been placed in no trump, but South was not sure that partner's clubs could withstand attack.

It is often a good move to reduce your trump length when you appear

Having won the club lead, declarer ruffed club before testing trumps and discovering the bad break. He then cashed the third high trump.

crossed to the diamond ace and ruffed a club with his last trump. The fact that this removed West's last trump proved decisive, for when declarer played diamonds, West was trapped on the horns of a dilemma.

If he ruffed a diamond, he would have to give declarer the game-going trick by leading spades; if he refused to ruff, South would have 10 tricks anyway.

Notice that after the club opening, an immediate ruff in diamonds, declarer cannot extract West's clubs and the defender will be able to make a trump and exit with a club.

'Benefit' Trial

Deal Questionable To Chrysler Firm

By IAN STREET

A crown witness testified in County Court here Monday that the sale of a 1964 convertible to G. E. P. Jones was a "questionable deal" in the eyes of Chrysler Corporation of Canada.

Robert R. Hassard, acting branch manager for dealership enterprise when the car was sold here by Pacific Chrysler last April, said the factory price was approximately $3,550.

The convertible was sold to Mr. Jones for $2,885, the witness said, when it "could have been sold for the full retail price of $4,000 to $4,700."

TWO FILES

Mr. Hassard said the deals between Jones and Pacific Chrysler were brought in the attention of the attorney-general's department when discovered by the same office in Vancouver.

"Archie Plummer, departmental inspector for the attorney-general's department, was given two files regarding deals between the company and Jones," said Mr. Hassard.

Mr. Hassard also testified that without the $1,577 listed in the purchase agreement as a trading adjustment Pacific Chrysler made a "lousy deal" on a 1963 sedan purchased by Mr. Jones in October, 1963.

"LOADED CAR"

Mr. Jones, suspended as chairman of the provincial government purchasing commission last Oct. 2, is charged with receiving unlawful benefits in the purchase of the two cars.

In cross-examination, defence counsel Hugh McGivern, QC.

Mergers Topic For Loffmark

Ralph R. Loffmark, minister of industrial development, trade and commerce, outlined some of the problems of merging companies to about 60 sales and marketing executives Monday night.

Mr. Loffmark was speaking at a dinner of the executives in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

challenged the witness' use of the term "a loaded car" in connection with the 1964 convertible. In the auto business "this means a car sold with a full line of extra equipment."

Mr. McGivern read to the court a list of 30 optional pieces of equipment which were not on the car purchased by Mr. Jones.

"VERY ORDINARY"

"The term 'loaded' inferred a fancier car than this one really is," defence counsel said. "I suggest that this 1964 Dodge convertible is in truth a very ordinary car."

Mr. Hassard replied that Chrysler also sold this line of convertible without bucket seats, without power brakes and power steering, and without remote control mirrors, all of which were on the car purchased by Mr. Jones.

The witness agreed, however, that while there was a suggested retail price on all cars sold "each dealer gets as much as he can on each car" and this sometimes means offering higher trade-in allowances.

MONTHS BEHIND

Carl Daniel Amakold, former secretary-treasurer and accountant for Pacific Products Use and Service, testified there was a "continual" lack of working capital which in July forced the firm to borrow $2,000 from Mr. Jones on a short-term note.

When he took over the job in April, the witness said, the books of the firm were "about five or six months behind" and when he left late in August for his present job in Vancouver the backlog had been cut to about one month.

Other evidence introduced Monday by crown prosecutor Lloyd G. McKenzie, QC, included the state of the bank accounts held at the time of the transactions by the accused and Pacific Products.

The trial before Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake was adjourned until Dec. 22.

Lightning Flashes

A number of bright flashes seen in the sky southeast of here between 7 and 8 p.m. Monday were probably caused by lightning.

Several persons reported the flashes and a weather office spokesman said it was "possible" that they were caused by lightning.

Community Plan Bylaw Sought for Queenswood

Saanich council will be asked to prepare a bylaw allowing an official community plan for the Queenswood area.

Members of the lands and planning committee recommended the bylaw be drawn after reviewing a petition from the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers Association calling for the plan.

Vote Protest Rejected

A complaint by a property owner in the View Royal panhandle area that he had no desire to join Esquimalt municipality was given a brief hearing by Esquimalt council Monday night.

Council then voted to petition the cabinet for extension of the municipal boundaries to take in the panhandle.

Saturday's Esquimalt vote to incorporate the panhandle passed by 76.4 per cent. Only 60 per cent was required.

In a letter to council J. Henson, owner of a service station on Admirals Road and adjacent property, said 90 per cent of the people on Admirals Road were against the extension. He knew of two residents of the area who were not listed on the petition.

OUT OF AREA

Municipal engineer John Graeme told council one of the people left off the list was listed as living on Wilkinson Road, out of the panhandle area. The other was not listed as a resident of the panhandle when the petition was compiled.

As to the claim of 90 per cent of Admirals Road residents against amalgamation, the percentage was more like 50 per cent, he said.

Of 22 people on Admirals Road who could vote, 15 were in favor and 17 did not sign the petition.

Satirical Revue Turbulent, Funny

By BEST BENNY

All About Us, a satirical revue presented by the Canadian Players in Victoria Monday night, is often very amusing and often almost turbulent.

It rattles along at breathless pace, brassy, loud and extremely slick. Yet it has a fine fund of humor, both in the script and the performance, and it kept a big audience at Oak Bay Junior High School in high spirits.

MAKES POINTS

All About Us certainly makes its satirical points whether we agree with them or not.

Directed by John Hirsch, this revue employs six performers, all comedians and all top-notch. One comedienne is Barbara Franklin and the five accomplished gentlemen are Hugh Webster, Bruno Gerussi, Eric House, Ken James and Jacques Zouvi.

EACH SHINES

Each gets the chance to shine more than once and does brilliantly.

Pianist Charles Mountford did an excellent job, particularly seeing that he comprised the entire orchestra.

Jury Clears Car Driver

A coroner's jury Monday night cleared the driver of a car which fatally injured William Stanley Charnell, 73, of 318 Goldstream, Nov. 26.

A car driven by John Braithwaite, 837 Goldstream, struck Mr. Charnell as he walked along Goldstream near Oakwood Corner and he died two days later. The jury finding was accidental death with no blame attached to Mr. Braithwaite.

Up-Island

New Vote On Merger But Not Fluoridation

Special to the Colonist

Future action on two controversial issues, apparently left unsettled in Vancouver Island voting Saturday was settled by a provincial cabinet minister and several municipal officials.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell announced in Victoria two parts of the Campbell River district will vote again Feb. 6 on the proposed formation of a district municipality.

TWO VOTED YES

He said a municipality will be formed at once by Campbell River village and Willow Point, the two areas which voted yes, and Oyster River, which balloted 65 per cent no, will be out for good.

The Feb. 6 vote will be in the key areas of Quilnaim and North Campbell River, which contain important industrial tax bases and voted no by just over 50 per cent.

Elsewhere, the fate of fluoridation seemed to be settled in Nanaimo, Duncan and North Cowichan.

Nanaimo city turned it down by 64 per cent but a proponent Saturday urged an early vote on fluoridation in both the city and the suburbs served by the Nanaimo waterworks district.

WOULD LOSE OUT

However, a survey of city council showed a majority felt such a vote would meet defeat and will not be held.

Officials in Duncan and North Cowichan, where fluoridation was approved by less than 60 per cent, pointed out a 60 per cent majority was required for approval. They said there would be no water change without a long study.

Promotions Announced By Navy

A promotion from the rank of lieutenant-commander to commander for Cmdr. N. R. Banfield, 47, of Victoria, was announced Monday by Canadian forces headquarters in Ottawa.

He will serve as staff officer (electrical) to the naval member, Canadian Joint Staff, Washington, D.C.

Naval promotions also resulted in the transfer of two commanders to the Pacific Command.

Cmdr. R. L. Hughes, 38, of Kingston, Ont., will become officer-in-charge, operations and weapons division of fleet school at HMCS Naden, and Cmdr. George McMorris, 36, of Edmonton, will become chief staff officer (plans) to the maritime commander Pacific.

Three Raids Net Thieves $600 in City

Three separate burglaries netted thieves an estimated $600 during the weekend.

The Pacific Club, 560 Fort Street, lost about $500, the Big Burger Drive-In, Douglas and Burnside, $56 and Gibson's Bowladrome, 914 Yates, less than $50 in petty cash.

The Pacific Club was entered by a second storey window and cigarette machines, cash registers and desks were rifled.

Returns were lower than normal because of election day bar closure Saturday, said officials.

At the Big Burger Drive-In thieves were rewarded with only $56 after painstakingly punching the dials out of the firm's safe.

Bowladrome employees found cigarette machine receipts and petty cash were missing Monday morning.

Fibrosis Address Changed

The Wilfred Boniface family, 8024 Cordova Bay Road, has asked that anyone wishing to make a donation to the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation send it to the branch president, Peter Young, at 3940 Smuggler's Cove Road.

The Boniface's daughter, a cystic fibrosis victim, was recently featured in a Colonial story and since then the family has been receiving donations, which have been passed on to the foundation.

Microphone Would Help

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of the Vancouver police department vice squad says it would be nice to have a microphone to assist in fighting prostitution.

But Det.-Sgt. Alfred Simmons asserts his squad has never used a "beam" microphone in its battle with ladies of ill fame.

He and other members of the department were denying a report published earlier that the department has a microphone that can pick out a single voice in a crowd from more than two blocks away.

The report said the microphone was used recently to tape voices in a suspected bawdy house and led to $125 fines against two sisters.

It's a Maple Leaf!

Hectic Night Settles Flag

OTTAWA (CP)—Selection of a red maple leaf national flag for Canada was settled in the Commons early today as the debate-limiting device of closure stopped the flood of words.

The issue reached a stirring climax as the Commons approved by a vote of 163 to 78 the flag selected by a House committee after six weeks of study—a red maple leaf on a white field flanked by red panels.

SENATE NEXT

The design still must go to the Senate for approval.

The wind-up to 33 days of flag debate brought stormy exchanges in the Commons in sharp contrast to the mildness exhibited at the start of the sitting Monday when the Liberals carried out their announced intention to use closure to end the debate.

"GOOD FLAG"

Prime Minister Pearson closed the debate with an appeal to Canadians to "rally 'round this red maple leaf flag."

"This is a good flag," he said in appeal to the Conservative benches where Opposition Leader Diefenbaker sat glowering.

"It's a Canadian flag."

ENTERS PRAY

After Mr. Pearson said he hopes Canada can go forward as a strong, united country under the new flag, Mr. Diefenbaker leaped to his feet.

END FOLLOWS

"We should feel sympathetic towards the right honorable gentleman because he is feeling the frustration of failure," Mr. Pearson shot back.

Government Resigns In Israel

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel called on President Zaiman Shazar Monday night and tendered the resignation of his government following a "fresh storm over the 10-year-old 'Lavon affair'."

No other single political issue in Israel has aroused more emotion or claimed more space in the press than the "Lavon affair," which culminated in the resignation in 1955 of Defence Minister Pinhas Lavon.

Details have never been officially divulged of an allegedly abortive security operation abroad, ordered by Lavon, which at the time was said to have caused loss of lives and liberty as well as political damage to Israel's name.

New Committees Urged

More Time at Home for MPs?

OTTAWA (CP)—Radical changes in Parliament's working schedule were proposed to the Commons Monday to ensure MPs a week in their constituencies for every four weeks in the capital through most of the session.

Under a setup suggested by the Commons special procedures committee, most of Parliament's detailed study of the government's multi-billion dollar spending program would be made by nine committees.

Parliament would adjourn two weeks in every five to allow half the MPs to work on spending in five of the committees while the other half went home to deal with riding affairs. In the second week, four more committees would take up the work, manned by the MPs who had made their constituency visit.

Attendance would be required at the committee meetings, enforced as it is now in the Commons—a $120-a-day penalty for absences beyond 21 days as reported by the MP himself.

The procedures committee recommendations were introduced in the Commons by H. A. Olson (SC-Medicine Hat), chairman of an all-party subcommittee on Parliament's committee structure.

Mr. Olson gave notice that he proposes to ask the Commons to endorse the recommendations some time after next Wednesday. He would give no indication when that will be.

UN Fizzle

Rocket from China?

NEW YORK (AP)—An examination disclosed Monday that a 3.5-inch rocket launcher from which a projectile was fired last Friday at the United Nations was not manufactured in the United States.

Police said checks of the weapon by army ordnance experts indicated it may have been made in China.

The launcher was found in a vacant lot in Queens across the East River from the UN building.

A projectile was fired from it Friday, apparently as part of a demonstration against the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba. The shell fell short of the UN building and exploded in the East River.

Setback in Senate

BANK BILL KILLED

Go It Alone Try Commons No Comment —Strachan —Perrault —Bennett

By JACK FRY

The Senate banking and commerce committee voted 17 to 7 Monday night to kill a bill incorporating the Bank of British Columbia.

Rail Plunge Drowns Engineer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Divers Monday recovered the body of Melville Hunt, 44, a Pacific Great Eastern Railway engineer who drowned Sunday when his locomotive left the track and plunged into icy Seton Lake, south of Lillooet.

Meanwhile, PGE officials opened an inquiry into the mishap from which two other men—brakeman Marcel Myette and fireman Jack Morrison—escaped with a soaking.

Mr. Myette said he and Morrison were hanging onto the engine's catwalk when the train hit a landslide and plunged into 50 feet of water.

"I must have gone down about 30 feet," said Mr. Myette. "I have no idea how long I was under but it must have been a while because Morrison had already swum 30 feet to shore and was looking for me when I came up."

Defeat of the bank, in which the government intended to invest up to 10 per cent of its ownership, brought immediate reaction from opposition political leaders here. Premier Bennett, who earlier said B.C. might go it alone if the bill were defeated, had no comment at all.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan, who supported the government measure during the last session of the legislature, said B.C. should open a bank immediately, without waiting for federal government approval.

House of Commons

Ray Perrault, leader of the five-man Liberal team in which he voted against the bank bill here, said he thinks Premier Bennett can get his bank through the House of Commons.

Legal Move

In Ottawa, the banking and commerce committee killed the bank bill after B.C. Attorney General Robert Bonner told the committee, on behalf of Mr. Bennett, that the province would not subscribe to any shares in the bank until after Parliament deals with its regular revision of the Bank Act, the central legislation under which chartered banks operate.

At present there is nothing in the Bank Act to prevent a provincial government from owning shares in a bank.

10 Per Cent

The provincial government was authorized by a majority vote in the last session to acquire up to 25 per cent of the authorized capital of the proposed bank. But Premier Bennett asked for only 10 per cent of the capital when he appeared before the banking committee recently.

The 17 to 7 vote was taken on a resolution presented earlier by Senator A. K. Huggessen (L-Quebec) declaring that the bill should not pass because provincial government ownership of bank shares could lead to control of a federally-chartered bank by a province, and would raise serious constitutional questions.

Parties Split

The motion, which carried on a vote which split party lines, declared the preamble of the bill was not proven.

This kills the bill at the committee stage. Whether it can be revived by some procedural move is open to argument, Senate sources said.

Mr. Bonner said after the committee adjourned that the action "was not encouraging." He would not say, however, whether he regarded the bank bill as dead.

Wide Support

NDP Leader Strachan said: "I think it's ridiculous for the Senate to turn down an application for a bank charter that has received the support of all but five of the elected representatives of B.C."

"It was the only major issue in the last session where we stood with (the Socials). We have always supported socialized banking and I firmly believe a provincial government has a right to participate in the banking processes of the nation," he said.

"I believe the government should go ahead and set up a banking system in the province anyway — call them treasury branches or anything you like," said Mr. Strachan.

"I feel they should move immediately, so we can accumulate..."

Villagers Resent Foreign Gargoyles

SWIFFHAM PRIOR, England (UPI)—Villagers here objected to the "foreigners" chosen by a stone carver to pose for gargoyle faces on the church tower.

The local vicar described a foreigner as "anyone who hasn't lived here for at least 20 years."

Americans Recalled

Soviet Trio Ordered From U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Monday ordered three Soviet military attaches to leave the country and called home three U.S. attaches in Moscow who had been accused by the Soviets of spying.

Expulsion of the Soviet military attaches "for activities incompatible with their diplomatic status" apparently was a U.S. retaliation against the Soviet action.

Great Britain recalled one of its naval attaches from Moscow and said it would expel an assistant Soviet naval attaché from London.

RELATED?

State department spokesmen said the U.S. attaches were being recalled because travel restrictions imposed on them in the Soviet Union hampered their ability to perform their duties. Asked if the U.S. and Russian actions were related, state department press officer Robert McCloskey replied:

"Draw your own conclusions."

NO ELABORATION

The three Soviet officials declared "persona non grata" in the United States were army attaché Gen. Maj. Vasily V. Zadivinski; assistant army attaché Col. Vladimir R. Grechagin, and assistant air attaché Col. Aleksandr V. Udakov.

McCloskey would not elaborate on the meaning of "activities incompatible with their diplomatic status" but said the Soviet attaches would leave the country "as soon as practicable." They had been restricted to the Washington area and were declared unwelcome Monday.

U.S. casualties totaled at least eight.

The mass flight by government forces was omitted from a U.S. military headquarters report on the clash, informed sources said.

They said it was probably the worst single disaster suffered by the Vietnamese since 1961.

Pearson which was prompted by Mr. Pearson's own letter to cabinet ministers and their staffs on morality in public life.

The federation has "for some considerable time," wrote Mr. Edwards, been "gravely concerned with the subject of political patronage appointments or terminations based on political affiliation."

BEYOND QUESTION

He found Mr. Pearson's letter "especially heartening" and quoted this sentence: "The conduct of public business must be beyond question in terms of moral standards, objectivity and equality of treatment."

Mr. Edwards said the federation has "repeatedly urged" the prime minister and other members of the cabinet "that all employees of the government of Canada should be able to obtain jobs, and have security in holding them, on the basis of competence and ability—and not as a result of political influence."

Big Motel First On List

Special to the Colonist

Construction of a motor hotel in Ladysmith to be called Canada House and cost more than $500,000 was announced in Vancouver Monday by officials of Anglo-American Builders Ltd.

Spokesman William N. Smith said Canada House will be the first of "several" motels contemplated by the firm on Vancouver Island.

He said negotiations have started for a motel in Campbell River and "we are thinking of moving into Cumberland, too."

LAND BOUGHT

Anglo-American Builders Ltd. has bought the Ross Hotel in Ladysmith and will tear it down. The firm has also bought other adjacent pieces of property and is negotiating with Ladysmith village for the purchase of land behind the Ross.

Mr. Smith said Canada House will fill almost a city block on the Island Highway between Roberts and White. Construction will start within 90 days and should be completed in eight or nine months.

CANADA HOUSE

He said Canada House is planned to cost $500,000 but the cost "will probably exceed $750,000" before its completion.

Number of storeys was not announced but the spokesman said Canada House will contain 40 motel units, banquet rooms, a sauna, a swimming pool and a dining lounge.

Decor will stress the history of Canada's natural resources and military services because, said Mr. Smith, "we feel tourists want to see something of Canada as a nation."

CANADIANA

There will be displays of artifacts and other particularly Canadian items.

Guiding force of Anglo-American Builders is John Sipon, owner of motor hotels in Penetion and Chilliwack, and a new partner in the Sportsman in Ladysmith.

Canada House will be managed by Al Hubshire, manager of the Sportsman. He will be succeeded in the latter job by Harold Dremmen when Canada House is completed.

Architect Derek Mann of North Vancouver has recently completed sketch plans.

Second Plebiscite Scheduled For Campbell River Areas

Two of the three Campbell River areas which voted no Saturday on formation of a district municipality will vote again on the issue Feb. 6, Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell announced Monday.

He also announced that formation of a municipality including Campbell River village and Willow Point, which voted yes, "will go forward" at once.

Campbell River voted 92 per cent in favor of the municipality. They were the two largest of the five areas involved.

Quinsam voted no by 56 per cent. North Campbell River was against by just under 60 per cent and Oyster River was opposed by 65 per cent.

MOST ENCOURAGING

The combined vote was 69 per cent in favor, which Mr. Campbell said was "most encouraging."

However, he added, he had stated before the vote that any area which voted no overwhelmingly would be excluded without reservation.

"This is the case with respect to Oyster River clearly," he said, "but not so clearly with respect to Quinsam and North Campbell River, where unfortunately less than 50 per cent of the resident homeowners voted on this very important issue."

IMMEDIATE UNION

Because the district municipality will lose $75,000 in tax revenue if it does not come into existence before Dec. 31, said Mr. Campbell, the two bigger areas will join at once. Oyster River will be out for good and "I propose to exclude from the new municipality" the other two. Mr. Campbell then pointed out that he undertook before the vote that, if the combined vote was above 60 per cent, one or two areas which voted no would vote again.

FEB. 6

He said:

"Therefore the property owners within the Quinsam and North Campbell River improvement districts will be given an opportunity to vote on the issue again Feb. 6, 1965."

Mr. Campbell said property owners in the new municipality will not take part in the Feb. 6 ballot.

Three Areas

Fluoride Votes Unlikely Now

By LYNNE WALLER and KLAUS MUENTHER

New votes on fluoridation in Nanaimo, Duncan and North Cowichan are a remote possibility at best, it was learned Monday.

Fluoridation was defeated by 64 per cent in Nanaimo Saturday, 2,008 to 1,145, but proponents urged another vote soon involving the entire Nanaimo waterworks district as well as the city.

The water change won narrow approval in the other areas. Duncan voted 413 to 278 in favor, 59 per cent, and North Cowichan voted yes 671 to 629, 52 per cent.

MORE NEEDED

But officials in both centres pointed out Monday 60 per cent was needed for approval, and the plebiscites were only expressions of opinion anyway.

The population of Nanaimo is roughly half of the 30,000 population of the waterworks district, which includes the city, Harewood, Northfield, Departure Bay, North Wellington and parts of Chase River and Extension.

NEW VOTE

Mayor Maffeo declined comment Monday on a new vote until he has investigated the matter further.

Ald. Bus MacDonald backed a vote in the entire district, saying, "We should give all those who use the water a chance to express their opinions."

Alderman-elect Mega McDougall agreed "that would be the only democratic way to do it."

But Aldermen Jack Parker and John Cook said an early vote would not be practical and the method and size of the vote should be investigated. "It would be better to leave it for awhile," said Ald. Cook. "It would be a waste of public funds to have another vote so soon and it would probably get licked anyway."

Mrs. McDougall

Alderman-elect Sandy McKay said Nanaimo's opinion is "quite clear" and a vote there is not needed, but supported a plebiscite in the waterworks district sections outside the city.

Duncan's Mayor Jack Dobson, who said Saturday night his council will take "another long and close look" before calling any formal vote on fluoridation, added Monday the majority had to be 60 per cent, and indicated little would happen for some time.

He said council would have been obliged to act if there had been something like a 50 per cent majority for fluoridation.

Ladysmith's Lady:

Threat to Waterfront Sparked Vote Revolt

Story and Picture by KLAUS MUENTHER

LADYSMITH—The Ladysmith ratepayers' revolt which resulted in the election Saturday of an almost brand-new council grew out of citizens' anger over threatened loss of a popular waterfront area.

The revolt was sparked by the Ladysmith Ratepayers' Association, formed while the controversy was at its height, and was explained Monday by two of the leaders, Jack Tukham and Mrs. Kathleen Grouhel.

They said the near-loss of the waterfront to a logging firm convinced them "it was time for a change to a more progressive council."

RECORD TURNOUT

"The election shows other Ladysmith citizens thought the same," said Mr. Tukham. "Our community can be proud of the turnout."

The turnout was 1,280 of the 1,682 eligible voters, or 75 per cent. It was not only the biggest on Vancouver Island Saturday but the largest in the history of the former city and village, which becomes the town of Ladysmith Jan. 1.

Turn mayor-elect Mrs. Grouhel, 45, a housewife and mother of two sons, said community support for the association was proven by the fact it has 250 members but she received 716 votes to upset longtime mayor and village chairman Leonard Ryan.

BOOMING GROUND

The citizens became angry last March over the logging firm's offer to use the waterfront as a booming ground in exchange for a small piece of beach. Petitions finally induced the village council to bring in a harbor scenic protection bylaw.

The association was formed by Mr. Tukham, a Cornox Logging Co. draughtsman, and Fred McCraig, a Crofton engineer who has since moved to California.

SLATE CHOSEN

Mrs. Grouhel, elected to the council only a year ago, resigned to head the slate chosen for the annual elections by the association.

The slate also included salesman John Cochrane, clerk Robert Stillin and head sawyer Thomas Davidson. All were elected while Mr. Ryan and incumbent councillor Thomas Strang lost and another councillor did not seek re-election.

The only member of the former council who will return in 1965 is Bernard Churchill, not

Duncan Man

Burglary Costs Prison Term

DUNCAN—City resident Oscar Jim was sentenced in magistrate's court Monday to three months in jail on a charge of unlawfully breaking into a dwelling house with intent to commit an indictable offence.

He pleaded guilty earlier to the break-in charge, which was laid recently after Jim was found in the home of N. J. (Pete) Prest on Coronation Avenue.

Mr. Prest heard a noise, thought it was his son coming home, but found Jim prowling through his home and held him until police arrived.

James Charles Gibb of Duncan was remanded to next Monday without plea on two charges. He is accused of assaulting a police officer Nov. 14 and of common assault on Duncan resident Bing K. Jung Nov. 22.

PUBLIC DRINKING

Lloyd A. Bergstrom of Duncan pleaded guilty to his second offence this year of consuming liquor in a public place. He was fined $20, or 60 days in jail in default, and was ordered to pay the fine within a week.

Mergers Topic For Loffmark

Ralph E. Loffmark, minister of industrial development, trade and commerce, outlined some of the problems of merging companies to about 60 sales and marketing executives Monday night.

Mr. Loffmark was speaking at a dinner of the executives in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Cherry Creek

Winter Work for 33 Announced in Alberni

ALBERNI—The winter works program planned by the Cherry Creek improvement district will employ 33 men, district chairman Charles Haggard announced Monday.

Mr. Haggard said work will begin early in January on three projects, two involving parks improvement and the other clearing around Lacey Lake, source of the district's water supply.

Men who qualify for provincial winter works grants by having been on social welfare continuously since Aug. 1 will be hired for the projects.

Parks to be improved are on Cherry Creek Road and the Nanaimo Highway.

Considerable clearing and burning is planned at Lacey Lake where, it is expected, the level of the water will have to be raised within five or six years to ensure an adequate supply for the growing district.

Mr. Haggard will be interviewing applicants for the jobs at the Cherry Creek office at 2 p.m. Friday.

Doman Industries Ltd. Now Public Company

DUNCAN—Officials of Doman Industries Ltd., the first locally-developed firm in history to become a public company, said Monday shares will be on sale starting today.

The firm will include established branches in Duncan, Nanaimo, Victoria and Vancouver. It has retail and wholesale lumber and building supply outlets, logging and sawmill operations and province-wide trucking runs.

President is H. S. Doman; secretary is J. C. Davie, and directors are Gordon Doman, Ted Doman, Gordon Elworthy, Ian Danvers and J. W. Chambers.

Boomerang Bird Won't Fly Home

LAVE COWICHAN—If it's lucky, Seattle pigeon No. 2388 could be home for Christmas. The pigeon, identified by the Seattle Homing Club tag, landed on Nitinat Lake last Tuesday. It was picked up by logger Les Valley.

Figuring it to be a homer, Les let it go—pointed toward Seattle.

But like a true homer it came back. If he can't get rid of it, Les plans to call it Boomerang.

Duncan Supermarket

Rezoning Deferred

DUNCAN—A rezoning application which would lead to a new supermarket costing between $750,000 and $1,000,000 went before city council at its regular meeting Monday afternoon.

A spokesman for operators of the Super-Valu store here said rezoning to commercial from residential is sought for land in the vicinity of Trunk Road and Trans-Canada Highway, adjacent to the present store.

He said the present store would be torn down and the new centre, to be named Newtown

Market, would include a supermarket and other stores, and might be four storeys high. He said construction would start within three months.

Council deferred action on the rezoning bid until it can be studied.

Architects for the new market complex are Sager and Marshall of Victoria.

Ald. B. W. W. Cocks reported building permit values soared to a record $217,100 in November, including 17 homes, compared to $15,200 in the same month last year.

METERS RIFLED

Eleven-month totals for Duncan are $894,100 this year and $247,856 a year ago.

Council also:

● Learned from Ald. Hamish Mutter 146 parking meters have been broken into in the past two months. Some were rendered useless.

● Passed a bylaw ordering demolition of an old building on Kenneth Street. The proprietors will have 30 days to comply, following notification, but council did not decide when the notice would be given.

● Agreed to study a request for $200 from the Duncan and District Family Emergency Service. Mayor Jack Dobson said, "This is a long-felt need but we should know more about it."

Marooned Couple Rescued

ALERT BAY—A logger identified only as Mr. McKimm and his wife were rescued Monday from Janet Island near here after being marooned six days before a passing freighter spotted them.

The McKimmels, forced ashore when their 34-foot craft met heavy seas, were "fit but a bit hungry." They were taken to Alert Bay for medical treatment.

Crewmen of the Imperial Nanaimo sent a small boat to rescue the couple after noticing a fire on the island.

Family Burned Out

Cowichan Hearts Opened by Fire

By JEAN BAIN

DUNCAN—Four collection depots were set up Monday as the Cowichan Valley opened its heart to help a family of four whose home was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon.

Richard and Marlene Rowlinson, 66 Coronation Avenue, lost everything except one bed. The loss included all the family's Christmas presents, bought Saturday in Victoria.

Duncan volunteer firemen who fought the blaze said it is believed to have started in a garbage burner attached to the kitchen stove. Damage was estimated at about $7,000 and the only insurance was on a $4,000 mortgage.

The Rowlinsons and their daughters, Penny, 8, and Vicky, five months, were visiting an aunt when the fire started just after 3 p.m. and returned home about 4 p.m. to find firemen battling the flames.

Apart from the bed, the family was left with only the clothes they were wearing. But already clothing and other items are being donated.

HELP ARRIVED

District Red Cross disaster chairman Mrs. Ivan Dobbins said bedding and blankets from the Red Cross in Vancouver were expected to arrive today.

The Red Cross has supplied an outfit of clothing for Penny, and several local residents donated clothing for Vicky. Mrs. Dobbins said the Rowlinsons need bedding for a double bed, a single bed and the baby's crib.

A friend of the family, Paul Robert, has arranged establishment of collection depots in the Chamber of Commerce building on the Trans-Canada Highway, the Cowichan Leader office at 151 Craig, Hank's Hideaway at 50 Station and the Commercial Hotel lobby.

The family is staying at a hotel, and a real estate firm has found a home for the Rowlinsons at Cherry Point, about eight miles south of here. They cannot move in until furniture is found.

BRICKLAYER

Mr. Robert said people who cannot come into town to make donations should phone 746-5041 or 746-7642 to arrange pickup of donations.

Mr. Rowlinson works in Evans Masonry at Cobble Hill as a bricklayer.

A Community Effort

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Christmas tree which stands in the centre of town this year is really a community effort.

It was donated by Elk River Timber, hauled into town by Robinson's Trucking and lifted into place by the G & A Trucking crane working on the nearby Discovery Inn addition. Merchants bought more lights and decorated the tree during the weekend, with the assistance of a B.C. Telephone cherry-picker.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Mrs. Paul Morrison of Fisher Road in Cobble Hill won two of the raffle prizes Saturday as 50 people attended a coffee and dessert party staged by the Catholic Women's League Cobble Hill.

NANAIMO — James Anderson, 674 Farquhar Street, is in satisfactory condition in Regional General Hospital with undetermined injuries received Saturday night when the car he was driving went out of control rounding a corner on Bowen Road and crashed into a telephone pole. Police are still investigating the cause of the mishap.

COURTENAY — The local Chamber of Commerce declined to endorse a letter from the Powell River Chamber at its last meeting, contrary to previously-published reports. Powell River wants the new Comox-Powell River ferry to make three trips daily with three more between Powell River and Texada. Provincial plans are for four Comox-Powell River trips.

UCLUELET — Arbitration hearings held during the weekend awarded a six per cent salary increase to teachers of the Ucluelet-Tofino school district. It was learned Monday. The deadline for 41 other B.C. school district arbitration hearings is Dec. 31.

NANAIMO — R. F. Fielden, of Duncan was fined $225 in magistrate's court Monday and given a six-month licence suspension after he pleaded guilty to being impaired while in care and control of a vehicle. Police said Fielden, apprehended early Sunday on Jinglepot Road, was found in a parked car.

COMOX — The village commission has given the first three readings to a bylaw which will raise village licence fees to $25 from $5 for unspayed female dogs.

LAKE COWICHAN — The Lake Cowichan Kiwanis Club has decided to write a letter to Attorney-General Bonner asking for another police officer for Lake Cowichan. The decision was made at a recent meeting where the club also endorsed the bylaw putting up $3,700 as Lake Cowichan's share of the site cost of the Cowichan Valley forest museum. Voters approved the bylaw Saturday.

NANAIMO — Police indicated Monday they plan to use extra patrols to cut down on the incidence of Christmas decoration vandalism.

COURTENAY — William Duncan was installed by Lieutenant-governor Don Johnston of Victoria as Kiwanis Club president at the annual club Christmas party during the weekend in the upper Elks hall. Also installed were Susie Lloyd, first vice-president; David Desreux, second vice-president; Dr. Punch Gernero, secretary;

Larry Hartman, treasurer, and directors Robert Arnett, Ad Clement, Gary Foster, Keith Seale, Brent Hayman, Ken McFayden and Ken Moore.

FULFORD — Ten members of the congregation of St. Mary's Anglican Church travelled to Alberni for the recent induction service in All Saints' Church of the former rector of this parish, Rev. S. J. Leech. A large crowd attended the impressive service. The sermon was given by Qualicum rector Rev. William Hills.

CUMBERLAND — A gift for every person was under the Christmas tree at the recent annual Christmas party and turkey dinner held by district old age pensioners in the Cumberland Recreational Institute hall. Club women members catered the dinner.

Recreation Chief Wants to Resign

CUMBERLAND — Mrs. Ruth McKellar submitted her resignation as recreation chief and a director of the Cumberland Recreational Institute as only two CRI members joined the board of directors at the annual meeting Sunday.

No reason was given for the resignation but it is understood Mrs. McKellar did so because of the lack of support.

The directors decided to defer action on the resignation until their next meeting in January. The two most popular ideas voiced during an informal discussion of a Cumberland centennial project were a bowling alley and an indoor swimming pool. The matter will be debated further during a centennial committee meeting in January.

SECOND FURNACE — The directors decided to buy a new hot water tank and to consider the purchase of a second new furnace, needed in the immediate future.

Elected to the board were J. Faulds, chairman; J. Weir, vice-chairman, and P. Cameron, W. Newman, William Henderson, W. Allan, A. Bonora, D. Ramsay, W. Fudge, Mrs. M. Luzzicon, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. J. Litwin.

PORT ALBERNI — Fellow cyclists are planning aid for Dave McVey who was seriously injured last month in a car-motorcycle accident on Third Avenue.

At the second meeting of the recently-formed Alberni Valley Motorcycle Club, it was decided to take up a Christmas collection for Mr. McVey, the father of two small children. Still a patient in West Coast General Hospital, the injured man is expected to be released for Christmas Day, which he will spend in a wheelchair at his home.

"Any donation will be greatly appreciated," said a spokesman for the club. "A collection can be at Kennedy Motors."

Harewood Flames Hit Farm

NANAIMO — Three cows were taken out of the building unharmed but the family cat was lost during the weekend when a fire in Harewood destroyed a barn and hay valued at more than $300.

Harewood volunteer firemen, including those shown at left in Agnes Fleet photograph, had to work more than three hours to quell the flames in the barn of F. E. Armistead, 360 Third Street.

The barn contained 12 tons of hay and stalls to accommodate the cattle and six horses. The loss was about $3,000, including the destroyed hay, and the barn was insured. Cause of the fire has not been determined.
